FOR THE LAST WORD FROM GEN. HUERTA WASHINGTON WAITS

American Officials Are Considerably Puzzled by Developments, but They Are Still Inclined to Hope.

STORY OF ULTIMATUM DISAVOWED BY HUERTA

Disavowal Did Much to Relieve the Tension at Washington—Envoy Lind Is Still Parleying With Huerta.

Washington, August 19.—Hopeful, though somewhat puzzled by the day's developments, administration officials anxiously awaited tonight the receipt of the Huerta government's complete reply to the American communication presented by John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had received during the past 24 hours:

A summary from Mr. Lind giving briefly the Huerta government's rejection of the American proposals.

About 1,000 words of the text of the Huerta reply, reported to be 7,000 words long.

A message from Mr. Lind stating that he had been in conference at an early hour today with Provisional President Huerta, that the interview had been cordial and was brought about at the suggestion of Huerta himself.

A denial from Charge O'Shaughnessy, authorized by Provisional President Huerta, declaring there was an untruth in the report of an ultimatum demanding recognition by the United States.

Situation Difficult to Understand.

This information coming in disconnected cipher messages which administration officials themselves confessed some difficulty in understanding, was given to members of the senate committee on foreign relations, republicans as well as democrats, and had the effect of staving off debate on the Mexican question, following sensational reports of a threatened severance of relations by the Huerta government.

Officials, though somewhat skeptical of the outcome of the present negotiations, took the view that nothing could be done by the United States, at least, until Mr. Lind actually concluded his parleys with the Huerta cabinet with whom the American envoy has established pleasant unofficial relations.

One thing which confused the situation today was the fact that only the first part of the Huerta note rejecting the American proposal had been received. This was couched in cordial terms, setting forth the reasons why mediation or outside interference is impossible of acceptance by the Huerta administration. It cited particularly that the pride of the Mexican people could not brook the settlement of an international controversy at foreign hands, but the principal argument was not reached in this instalment of the document.

Feeling of Hope Inspired.

In the meantime, news that subsequently Mr. Lind had resumed negotiations with Huerta, inspired a feeling of hope that something tangible might result from the interchange of views.

There was an undercurrent of skepticism among some officials, however, who were inclined to doubt if Senor Urrutia, Mexican minister of interior, with the responsibility for the reports published today that recognition had been demanded of the United States with a threat of severing relations between the two countries. At the white house and state department the denials authorized by Provisional President Huerta was accepted.

Reports of friction in the Huerta cabinet, however, were current and Huerta's alleged declarations were cited in official circles as possible evidence of friction. It was pointed out that Urrutia had issued the first statement declaring that Mr. Lind would not be received unless he brought credentials recognizing the Huerta government. This position later was repudiated not only by Federico Gamboa, minister of foreign relations, but by Provisional President Huerta as well, both of whom received Mr. Lind and since expressed themselves in complimentary terms concerning his personality, though at the outset Mr. Lind informed them he did not bring recognition of the Huerta government.

Believed Huerta May Resign.

It is believed here in some quarters that Provisional President Huerta has practically decided to resign in favor of Senor Gamboa, with the intention of being a candidate in the coming elections. No direct statement has come to the state department at any time that Huerta would not be a can-

BACK ACROSS THE BORDER CANADA WILL SEND THAW

Dominion Government Intends to Deport the Slayer of Stanford White as an "Undesirable Citizen."

THAW HIRES A LAWYER TO FIGHT DEPORTATION

Thaw Popular in Canada. Cheered by Great Crowd. Should He Be Deported He Will Be Placed on the Soil of New Hampshire.

Ottawa, August 19.—Harry K. Thaw will be deported from Canada under the present plans of the Canadian immigration department, because within the meaning of the Canadian immigration act he is regarded as a "prohibited person." If custom is followed, he will be sent back to New Hampshire, from which state he entered the dominion.

It was late this afternoon when the department was officially notified of Thaw's apprehension and immediately Inspectors D. H. Reynolds and F. E. Whillans were dispatched to Sherbrooke with instructions to watch the case and institute proceedings to the above mentioned end. The department this afternoon wired the chief of police at Sherbrooke to hold Thaw under the immigration act.

Plain in Regard to Thaw.

The act seems plain in regard to Thaw's case. There are certain classes who, under section 40, are not eligible to enter Canada, or who if they succeed in doing so are not permitted to remain here. The list includes idiots, imbeciles, insane people or erat—while criminals shall not enter the country, and if they succeed in eluding immigration officers they shall be deported forthwith.

There is an exception, however, and it is interesting to note that the negro pugilist Johnson recently managed to pass through Canada under the clause which provides that one of the prohibited class who enters Canada carrying with him through transportation to another country may not have his progress impeded.

Information received here does not say whether Thaw had taken the precaution of securing such transportation, though following so closely on the Johnson affair it is difficult to see how his legal advisers could have overlooked this contingency.

At the justice department grave doubt is expressed as to the power of the government to grant extradition on the treaty between Great Britain and the United States an escape from an asylum is not mentioned as an extraditable offense. The department, however, unhesitatingly expressed the opinion that the case comes under the immigration act.

New Hampshire to Get Thaw.

Questions of the legality of Thaw's arrest do not conflict with any action under the immigration act. Deportation proceedings are very simple. They merely consist in arresting the object of deportation, and if there is sufficient evidence as to his identity and as to his disability to enter the country, he is escorted across the border to the point seventy-five miles in the interior.

The custom is to remove him through the port and from the point from which he entered after the officers of the United States have been notified under an agreement between the United States and Canada. In Thaw's case it is likely Thaw will be sent back to New Hampshire.

Objection to deportation proceedings have rarely succeeded as prohibited immigrants have not under the act the opportunity of resisting the inspectors of the immigration department.

Once Thaw is landed back over the border it will be a matter of domestic concern as to how he will be further dealt with.

THAW IS PREPARING TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

Sherbrooke, Que., August 19.—Harry K. Thaw, cut short in his flight from the state hospital for the criminal insane at Mattawan, N. Y., by arrest today at the village of St. Hermenegilde de Barford, just over the international line from New Hampshire, prepared in his cell in the county jail here tonight to fight against being sent back to the United States.

Thaw faces deportation on the ground that he is undesirable alien and on a tradition on a warant charging him with bribery.

The warrant already issued in New York state on a charge of conspiracy will not suffice to extradite him, in the opinion of local authorities. These authorities received word tonight that the district attorney of Dutchess county, in which Matteawan is located, was on his way to Montreal to obtain a new warrant charging Thaw with briberp—an extraditionable offense—if necessary.

Passing Through, says Thaw.

In his own defense Thaw claims he was merely passing through Canada on his way to Detroit when his passage was interrupted by his arrest. He exhibited what he claimed to be transportation to Detroit in support of this claim, and cited the case of Jack Johnson to bear out his contention that he cannot be sent back to the United States by Canadian authorities so long as he simply was passing through the country and intends to go beynoo its borders.

District Attorney Conger, of Dutchess county, New York, it is understood here, wants Thaw ordered deported and returned to the United States over that part of the international line touched by the state of New York. Thaw came into the dominion from New Hampshire, however, and if custom is followed, he would go back to New Hampshire.

To Coaticook, where he was lodged in the lock-up immediately after his arrest, Thaw engaged a local lawyer. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Dupuis. The justice read to him

BRIDE OF GODBEE DIES OF WOUNDS

She Passes Soon After Husband Is Buried—Divorced Woman Who Did Shooting to Be Tried at Millen.

Savannah, Ga., August 19.—Mrs. Florence R. Godbee, who was shot and severely wounded yesterday morning in the Millen, Ga., postoffice by her husband's divorced wife, Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, died here at 10:35 o'clock tonight, whither she was brought for hospital treatment. She died without being told of her husband's death.

The funeral of Judge Walter S. Godbee, who was shot and killed at the same time his wife was wounded took place this afternoon at Waynesboro, Ga., with Masonic ceremonies.

To Be Tried in State Court.

Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee is confined in the Jenkins county jail at Millen. She will be tried at the superior court of Jenkins county, which convenes next month. Her attorneys stated today she will waive preliminary hearing and will make no attempt to secure bail.

It was first thought the case would be tried in the federal courts as the shooting occurred in the postoffice, but the building in which the postoffice is located is only leased, not owned, by the government, hence the federal courts have no jurisdiction.

A. S. Anderson, coroner at Millen, received a telegram from the department of justice in Washington saying that the federal government could have nothing to do with the case, as it did not have jurisdiction, but that the case will have to be tried in the state courts.

The point was raised yesterday soon after the tragedy. Persons interested in the postmaster to ascertain what stand the federal government would take. The telegram was sent to him in answer to his inquiry.

Jealousy Caused the Tragedy.

Anger because she had failed to effect a reconciliation with her former husband and because she was goaded by financial difficulties prompted Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee to shoot and instantly kill Judge Godbee, and desperately wound his wife, Mrs. Florence Boyer Godbee.

The real motive for the crime, which has startled the entire state, was learned today by a representative of The Constitution of a near relative of the woman who did the shooting. Meanwhile Mrs. Godbee, in her cell in the Jenkins county jail, refuses to break the silence which she has maintained since the tragedy.

"Mrs. Godbee had made numerous attempts to effect a reconciliation with the judge," said the relative who asked that his name not be mentioned. "There was no direct communication between the two, but the interchanges were made through their children. Judge Godbee refused to consider remarrying his former wife.

"She was wealthy at one time, but had lost or spent most of her money. This caused her to want to return to her husband, who had an income of $350 a month. Judge Godbee had been defraying the expenses of their daughter, Sara, at a seminary. Mrs. Godbee made Sarah believe it came from her father after he had rejected her overtures. The girl missed a whole year from school on this account. Her mother was not financially able to send her to school, and would not let Judge Godbee do it.

Second Wedding Kills Hope.

"When Judge Godbee was married on April 13 his former wife knew all hope of a reconciliation was gone. She was deeply grieved at this. The divorced woman was enjoying the returns from her money while she was in financial difficulties. She frowned upon her supposed trouble and decided to get revenge."

Mrs. Godbee obtained on Saturday the weapon with which she did the shooting. She did not know how to load it and sent for P. G. Foote, a policeman, and asked him to load it for her.

"Will a thirty-two caliber gun kill as quick as a thirty-three?" the officer is quoted as saying she asked him.

"Yes," replied the officer.

Mrs. Godbee then smiled. She did not say what she intended to do with the weapon and the officer thought no more of the occurrence until he heard the shooting.

As she was leaving the scene of the tragedy yesterday after almost stepping over the bodies of her victims, Mrs. Godbee met a man who had been a friend of the family for many years. He was just entering the postoffice in front of which the body of Judge Godbee and his wounded wife still lay.

"My God," he said, "what have you done, woman. You certainly have nerve."

Godbee Buried at Waynesboro.

Waynesboro, Ga., August 19.—Special.)—The funeral of Judge Walter S. Godbee, of Millen, was held here today at 11 o'clock, the Masons of Millen and Waynesboro joining in the ceremonies.

It was the expressed wish of Mr. Godbee that he be laid and came his body should be brought to Waynesboro for burial. His tragic end was a shock to the entire community, for Mr. Godbee was well known and liked by all.

Mr. Godbee was a native of Burke len and Waynesboro joining in the sixty-sixth district in 1857. For a long time he was a resident of Waynesboro. Coming his lot with Millen, he championed Jenkins county, and was successful in assisting materially in creating the new county. He was very fond of outdoor sports, and was a newspaper man of note, having been the first editor of The Millen News. He had been a contributor to several papers, and was always the champion of right and justice.

He was married three times, his first wife being Margaret Speth. He leaves one daughter by her, Miss Margaret Godbee, who lives in Augusta. His second wife, Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, by whom he was killed, bore him three children, two sons, King and Frank, and a daughter, Miss Sarah Godbee.

LIKE OLD ADAM, DIGGS IS WHINING, GIRL TEMPTED ME

On Trial for White Slavery, Diggs Says That Marsha Warrington Forced Him to Go to Reno With Her.

WRONGED MRS. DIGGS TRIES TO SAVE HUSBAND

Takes Stand for Him Just After Hearing Him Admit He Had Been Unfaithful to Her in Her Own Home.

San Francisco, August 19.—Mrs. Maury I. Diggs sat today in the courtroom where her husband stands, charged as a white slaver, heard him testify that he had been unfaithful to her with Marsha Warrington in their own apartments and twenty minutes later herself took the witness stand to testify in his behalf.

Case to Jury Today.

With her evidence the defense and the government completed and the government began its arguments to the jury. By stipulation of Judge Van Fleet, each side has two hours and twenty minutes in which to sum up and the case will be in the jury's hands late tomorrow afternoon.

Three witnesses held the stand today. Maury I. Diggs occupied the morning with his account of events that led to his flight to Reno with Marsa Warrington, accompanied by Drew Carminetti and Lola Norris. They were arrested in Reno, Nev., brought back to Sacramento and the two men charged by the federal government with violation of the Mann act, which makes it a felony to transport women from one state to another for immoral purposes.

Caminetti will be prosecuted, the government announced today, when the jury has made up its mind about Diggs, and regardless of whether it finds him innocent or guilty or disagree.

The other two witnesses were Mrs. Caminetti and Mrs. Diggs. They were questioned briefly and told of the sleeplessness, erratic, nervous behavior and air of merriment which characterized their husbands for the week preceeding their flight.

Mrs. Diggs told how she had gone with her husband to see her father-in-law. Mrs. Caminetti tried to tell how she had threatened to interview Judge Van Fleet of the federal court, but, in as much as she did not do so until after the arrests in Reno the judge held her testimony immaterial.

Women Flocked to Hear Diggs.

Diggs was the center of interest. Handsomely gowned women stood two hours without luncheon in the corridors of the federal building to hear his concluding testimony in the afternoon.

Diggs' lawyers did not attempt to have him deny that he got the transportation to Reno, paid for the Pullman berths and was intimate with Marsha Warrington there. The stress was laid on what he had intended to do. No attempt was made to assail the reputation of the girls before they met Diggs and Caminetti. Under the rulings of Judge Van Fleet evidence of this nature was immaterial.

Diggs testified that he "bawled out" his home during the absence of his wife when Lola Norris Caminetti and Marsha Warrington visited them. His unfaitfulness to his wife at that time, he swore, was at the suggestion of Miss Warrington, who gloated over her triumph over the absent wife.

He also testified that when first scandal assailed her, it was Miss Warrington who had suggested a retirement to Diggs. He testified that when he tried to "let her down easy," as he put it, to break off relations with her, she called him a "piker."

"We girls framed this," he testified she had told him. "and you fellow have got to come along. Believe me, you're not going away and leave me."

Just an "escapade" says Diggs, referring to the trip to Reno with the girls. Diggs spoke of it as an escapade.

"On March 3," testified the defendant, "I remember talking about my affairs with Miss Warrington. 'I've got to go away from here,' I told her. 'Things are getting too hot for me. She didn't want me to go. I told her that I had to—that I had a future, a family, a business to protect and that I was going to Los Angeles for a while and give public opinion a chance to die down.

Swears Girl Urged Him.

"A few days later she called me up and asked me why I was still in town. I told her that I had some buildings in construction and that there were details I had to look to.

"About a week before we went to Reno my landlord told me that the janitor of the building and the policeman on the beat had complained to him about my taking girls to my office.

"The same week I took an automobile ride with Miss Warrington on the upper Stockton road. We saw another machine behind us and I told her it was my father with an officer of the juvenile court. We traveled 50 miles an hour for some minutes and left them.

"My father was in town then and I knew he was looking for me. The girl said, 'Believe me, you're not going away and leave me here.'

"'Do just as you please,' I said. 'I am going, and I am going alone. I have got too good a family here. I've got to think of them. I've got lots before me in this town and I want this to blow over.'"

"Marsha said to me, she's got to go, too, and Miss Norris with her. Miss Norris never would have gone to Reno if Miss Warrington hadn't insisted on it, from the first."

"I got the machine," continued Diggs, "and rode around in it all day, calling at O'Brien's saloon from time to time. That father of yours is a terror,' O'Brien told me. 'He's run-

Frank's Statement Dictated

SAYS COUNSEL NEVER SAW IT

To Wife Several Weeks Ago

Leo M. Frank stated to a reporter for The Constitution that the four-hour statement which he delivered on the stand Monday afternoon had been prepared two weeks before the trial, that every line of the statement, as originally prepared, had been dictated to his wife, who is an expert stenographer, and that he had adhered to the text of the original closely, interpolating some few passages which had been suggested by points brought out during the progress of the trial.

"Neither Mr. Arnold nor Mr. Rosser ever saw the statement," said Frank. "Neither helped me with one word of it."

The conclusion of the statement was extemporaneous and came to me while I was on the stand.

Frank never once referred to a note during the time he was delivering the statement. The only papers he had in his hand at any time were the financial sheet, invoices and other papers referring to work at the factory.

MANY GENERAL BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Wayward Home for Girls Approved, But Not to Be Precedent for New Expenditures.

Practically all of the general bills enacted by the legislature at its last session were passed up to the governor and signed by him yesterday.

Among them were the general appropriations bill, about which so much has been said; the inheritance tax bill, the bill creating a home for wayward girls, the permanent registration bill, the medical practice bill, the bill doubling the corporation tax and the "blue sky" bill.

The only one of these measures about which there had been any doubt of the governor's approval was the bill creating a home for wayward girls. It is understood that the reason for the governor's reluctance to sign this bill was that it created an additional annual drain on the state treasury at a time when the state was already heavily in debt.

Debts Should Come First.

It was certainly not from any objection to the philanthropic motives underlying the creation of a home for wayward girls nor from a failure to recognize the need of such an institution, but solely because the governor holds to the old adage, applying to states as well as to individuals, that one should be just before he is generous—in other words, should pay his debts before he gives his money to charities.

When the governor learned that $10,000 of the appropriation was for the purchase or erection of a home and $10,000 for maintenance, the latter not being necessarily available for some time, he decided that he could sign the bill.

The bill provides for the selection by a committee to be appointed by the governor, consisting of three men and two women, who shall select a site for the home and make other arrangements necessary for the inauguration of the institution. The appointments will probably not be announced until the governor returns from his trip to Colorado, where he will attend the annual conference of governors.

Atlanta Charter Today.

The Atlanta charter bill will probably be one of the last which the governor signs. Clerk Bolfeuillet said last night that, although he had had eight clerks busy copying the bill for two days, they had not yet finished it and it would not reach the governor until some time Wednesday.

There will be a large number of bills remaining for the governor to sign this, the last day allowed by law, but very nearly all of them are local bills.

ARMY OF 50,000 TO PULL MISSOURI OUT OF MUD

Business Men and Farmers Are Ready to Work Two Days on the Roads.

Kansas City, Mo., August 19.—Fifty thousand business men and farmers of western Missouri, it was estimated, burnished their picks and shovels tonight and prepared to shoulder them at daylight tomorrow to take part in Missouri's two good roads days, the slogan for which is: "Pull Missouri out of the mud."

Hundreds of Missouri mothers and daughters and wives and sweethearts were busy, too, preparing lunches for the "boys." In many counties the women have organizations of their own and will serve dinners to the workers at noon. At many small points a general holiday has been declared.

Tonight, while Missouri citizens were making ready for tomorrow's test, Governor George H. Hodges, of Kansas, was busy in the state house at Topeka, winding up his state business so he might journey to Jefferson City and assist Governor Elliott W. Major, of Missouri, who issued the proclamation for the road ways. Both executives are prepared to don overalls and take an active part in rebuilding the roads near the Missouri capitol.

Big motor trucks scurried over Jackson county today, taking the last of the equipment and supplied needed by the thirty-six road overseers and tonight everything was "set" and waiting for the word "go" early tomorrow. It is estimated Kansas City alone will contribute 3,000 men to Jackson county's army of workers.

Many firms have excused employees tomorrow that they may work the roads. Other concerns that could not spare their men have contributed to a fund for the hire of "substitutes" and 200 of the latter have been employed.

"REGULAR" DEMOCRATS ARE MINUS A QUORUM

Nashville, Tenn., August 19.—Pursuant to a call of the steering committees of the "regular" democrats, practically all the members of the legislature of that faction met here today, the general assembly being called to order at 2 o'clock. Owing to the failure of the independent democrats and republicans to appear there was no quorum present and a recess was taken until 4:30 o'clock. Again the quorum was missing and the legislature adjourned until tomorrow morning. A regular caucus was held this afternoon, at which time various propositions for submission to the fusionists were discussed, but no definite action taken.

STATE IS HARD HIT BY JUDGE'S RULING BARRING EVIDENCE ATTACKING FRANK

Court Rules Out All Specific Acts of Immorality Charged to Prisoner, Despite Vigorous Fight Made by Solicitor Dorsey, Who Had Called Many Witnesses to Prove His Character Bad.

DR. SAMUEL BENEDICT COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF DR. ROY F. HARRIS

State Makes Strong Effort to Show That Minola McKnight Was Not Coerced Into Signing the Statement Which She Afterward Repudiated—Boy Says He Saw Frank With Mary Phagan.

The state was given a big setback Tuesday when Judge Roan ruled out all specific acts of immorality charged to Frank which Solicitor Dorsey was seeking to get before the jury.

When the defense placed Frank's character in evidence, no one was more gratified than Solicitor Dorsey. He stated that this was the thing he had hoped for all along and that he would have no difficulty in tearing it to tatters. With this in view the little Hebrew girl, who has been in the Home of the Good Shepherd at Cincinnati, was sent for and is now in the city. She was but one of many by whom he expected to establish certain acts of immorality.

If Solicitor Dorsey cannot manage to get any of this evidence before the jury, Frank's character, so far as testimony goes, will go unscathed.

TESTIMONY RULED OUT.

At the afternoon session Miss Nellie Wood, who worked at the pencil factory two days, was placed on the stand. Before any questions were put to her Solicitor Dorsey stated that he wanted a ruling from Judge Roan as to the class of evidence that he would permit in the record. The jury was sent out and Solicitor Dorsey stated that he wanted to prove by the witness that on the second day she was employed at the pencil factory Frank had made her an indecent proposal and that she had quit.

The point was argued at length. Solicitor Dorsey urged that the defense had asked many witnesses if at any time or place they had been guilty of immoral conduct with Frank, and that the state had a right to rebut this evidence. Judge Roan once more ruled with the defense, however, and the witness left the stand and without making any sort of statement.

SAW FRANK WITH MARY PHAGAN.

One of the few strong pieces of evidence which the state managed to get to the jury was the statement of Will Turner, a youth of sixteen, that on one occasion when he was working at the pencil factory, he had seen Frank in conversation with Mary Phagan in the metal room; that the girl was retreating from Frank and Frank was following her. Frank had said, according to the witness, that he was the superintendent of the factory and wanted to talk to her. The girl had replied that she had some work to do and retreated from him.

Frank, in his statement, said he did not know Mary Phagan.

ECHO OF McKNIGHT AFFIDAVIT.

The state made a strong effort to show that Minola McKnight, who works for Mrs. Selig, Frank's mother-in-law, was in no way coerced into making and signing the statement which she afterward repudiated. The effort was not altogether successful; in fact, on cross-examination, George Gordon, attorney for the McKnight woman, made statements which would seem to give color to this contention. Among other things, he stated that Solicitor Hugh Dorsey had refused to sign an order to Chief Beavers asking for the woman's release. He said Solicitor Dorsey had stated to him that he had not had the woman arrested and he did not want to do anything which "would get him in bad with the detectives."

The statements of Roy Craven and E. H. Pickett, employees of the Beck-Gregg Hardware company, were to the effect that the McKnight woman had first denied the statements afterward made in the affidavit and had later made them voluntarily.

STANDS BY HARRIS.

Dr. Samuel G. Benedict, president of the state board of health, was introduced by the state to disprove the charges of scientific dishonesty lodged against Dr. Roy Harris by Dr. Willis Westmoreland. The minutes of the board were admitted as evidence. These minutes were at variance with the statement of Dr. Westmoreland.

At the morning session many witnesses were introduced to prove the good character of C. B. Dalton and to prove the bad character of Daisy Hopkins.

It was one of the most uneventful days of the trial.

Witness Swears He Saw Frank Forcing Unwelcome Attentions Upon the Little Phagan Girl

The most sensational testimony of the entire morning session was produced when Willie Turner, a young farmer of Sandy Springs, Ga., an ex-employee of the pencil factory, was called by the prosecution.

He testified that Frank knew Mary Phagan, and that on one occasion he had seen the superintendent and the victim in the metal room, when the girl was striving to get away from him and return to her work.

He was questioned directly by the solicitor.

"Where did you work in March, 1913?"

"National Pencil factory."

"Did you know Leo Frank?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you know Mary Phagan?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ever see Frank talking to Mary Phagan?"

"Yes, once on the second floor in the metal room."

"How long was that before she was found dead?"

"It was about the middle of last March."

"What time of day was it you witnessed this scene?"

"Shortly before noon."

"Who else was in the room?"

"Nobody that I could see."

"What did Mary do?"

"She told Mr. Frank she had to go back to work."

Frank Followed Girl.

"Anything else?"

"She backed off and he went on walking towards her, talking to her. The last words I heard him say to her was that he wanted to talk to her."

"What was it Frank said to her?"

"He said he was superintendent of the factory and that he wanted to talk to her."

At the request of attorneys for the defense the jury was sent from the room. Mr. Arnold made a request to argue the subject, declaring that testimony was inadmissible and irrelevant.

In reply Mr. Hooper said:

"It is to show that Frank was familiar with the girl and was displaying his superiority to her. And, you must remember, your honor, that this affair happened only a short time before the murder. Also, that the accused made a statement was that he did not know the girl, except by her name which he saw on the pay roll."

Following which Judge Roan asked Rosser if he cared to be heard. Rosser said:

"I don't want to be heard if your honor isn't with us on this subject."

Dorsey:

"We contend, your honor, that this girl was called in the metal room by this man, who has declared he never knew her. It is contradictory to his statement made here, and this boy's testimony should rightfully go before the jury."

Mr. Arnold arose, saying:

"Your honor can see that this trial isn't being held on the original issue. Every illegal transaction has been brought against this man that could possibly be brought to bear."

Interrupting the attorney for the defense, Mr. Hooper exclaimed:

"I don't think this statement of Mr. Arnold's should be allowed to go in, because, in the first place, it isn't true."

Judge Roan recalled the jury, ruling that such parts of Turner's statement would be admitted in the effort to show that Frank was acquainted with the girl.

The witness repeated his story to the jury. He then was taken by Rosser for cross-examination.

"What time of day did you say it was you saw this?"

"Shortly before noon."

"How many girls were in the metal department at that time?"

"I didn't see any."

"Didn't you say the girls were quitting work?"

"Some of them were."

Turner was called from the stand. As he reached the doorway he was recalled again by the defense.

"Describe Mary Phagan to me," said Mr. Rosser.

"She had light hair, and—I know her, but I can't describe her. I know she smiled. I had heard other boys talking about her."

He was then released.

Wrangling Caused by Evidence In Defense of Dr. Roy Harris

Solicitor Dorsey announced that on account of some of the state's witnesses being from out of town he would vary to a certain extent the order in which he would put them up.

Dr. S. C. Benedict, president of the state board of health and dean of the school of pharmacy of the state university, was first called to the stand.

"Are you connected with the state university?" Dorsey asked.

"Yes. I'm a member of the faculty," said Dr. Benedict.

"What state position do you hold?"

"I'm president of the state board of health."

"Were you a member of the board before you became president?"

"Yes."

"Were you present when Dr. Willis Westmoreland preferred charges against Dr. H. F. Harris?"

"Yes," said Dr. Benedict.

Objection By Arnold.

Attorney Arnold objected, saying they would not go into the row between Dr. Westmoreland and Dr. Harris. He declared it was not germane to the case.

"Dr. Westmoreland swore on the stand his personal feelings against Dr. Harris," said Arnold.

"Dr. Westmoreland accused Dr. Harris of scientific dishonesty and there are certainly not going to let a statement like that go unchallenged," said Dorsey.

"I'm going to show a letter Dr. Harris wrote Dr. Westmoreland," said Arnold, "they go into this row."

Minutes of Board Produced.

Dorsey produced minutes of the board and had Dr. Harris state they were correct.

"I want to know if Dr. Westmoreland's charges were sustained," said Dorsey, prefacing it with a caution to Dr. Benedict not to answer until Judge Roan had ruled on the admissibility of the question.

Arnold asked if the minutes would not show that.

Dr. Benedict said he wanted to look and see if the minutes showed this. He then said they did not appear.

"I want to know if the charges are on the minutes?" said Dorsey.

Dr. Benedict said he thought only the decision of the board was on the minutes, but that he had not yet found it.

A search of the minutes was then made as Judge Roan ruled the minutes must show.

"Dr. Westmoreland's construction of the charges on the minutes was that Dr. Harris was virtually found guilty of the charges of scientific dishonesty, but that the board refused to discharge him and then that he, Dr. Wistmoreland, resigned," said Arnold.

Attorneys Arnold and Luther Rosser then examined the minutes of the state board.

Questions Ruled Out.

"I'll ask you to give your opinion of Dr. Harris," said Dorsey.

The defense objected and it was withdrawn.

Dorsey asked the witness what was the condition of the board since Dr. Westmoreland had resigned as president.

Judge Roan, on motion of the defense, ruled this out as being merely argument.

Dorsey then declared he would later introduce the minutes as evidence.

Arnold asked Dr. Benedict about a letter he wrote Dr. Westmoreland and on motion of the state Judge Roan ruled this would have to be produced in court.

Dr. Benedict was not cross-examined, but was excused until the letter could be brought into court, which the defense said would be done later.

Dr. Benedict left the stand and Dorsey introduced page No. 144 of the minutes.

Defense Again Objects.

Arnold objected, saying it was not right to introduce merely a part.

Dorsey said the defense might introduce any of the minutes they cared.

Arnold replied that none of the minutes ought to go in.

Dorsey stated then that Dr. Westmoreland had said Dr. Harris was found guilty of scientific dishonesty, but was not discharged.

Page No. 144 of the minutes was allowed by Judge Roan to be introduced. Attorney Rosser entered a formal objection and had it put on the minutes of the court stenographer.

Then Dorsey read a letter to the governor which was sent from Dr. Westmoreland, then president of the board of health, in regard to the findings of the board.

On motion of Attorney Rosser, Judge Roan ruled out the letter.

Saw Mary Phagan on Her Way To Pencil Factory, Says McCoy

M. E. McCoy, of Bolton, who stated that he worked part of the time as a painter and part as a farmer, was put on the stand after McEwen, the motorman. He swore that he saw Mary Phagan on Forsyth street going to the National Pencil factory at a very few minutes after the noon hour of the day she was killed.

Before he had left the stand the defense had made a bitter but unsuccessful effort to break him down and confuse him and Attorney Rosser had reduced him practically like a hundred questions about the days before he saw the girl.

"Did you know Mary Phagan?" asked Dorsey.

"Yes."

"Did you see her on April 26, last?"

"Yes."

"Where?"

"In front of No. 12 North Broad street."

"What time was it?"

"It was right after 12."

"Can you be more definite about the time?"

Saw Her Go By.

"Well, I left Walton and Forsyth streets at exactly 12 and I walked straight there and saw her go by as I got there and so it couldn't have been but a very few minutes after 12 o'clock that I saw her go by the three or four minutes to get there, but not over that," concluded the witness.

"How did you know the time when you left Walton and Forsyth?" asked Mr. Rosser, who took up the cross-examination.

"Well, I looked at my watch, that's how."

"What did you look at your watch for?"

"Because I wanted to know what time it was."

"How could the girl have got there at three or four minutes after twelve if she left home at 11:45 o'clock?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"I don't know. I don't even know how she came to town, all I know is that I saw her there at the time I told you," replied the witness in a positive tone.

"Why did you not tell this sooner?" Mr. Rosser next asked.

"I did not know it was important and I did not want to get mixed up in the case," he replied.

"Where were you at noon on the day before?"

"I was at Buckhead.'

"Well, where were you the day before that at noon?"

"At Buckhead."

"Did you look at your watch?"

"Yes."

"Well, where were you at 11 o'clock that day."

"At Buckhead."

Quick Fire of Questions.

Attorney Rosser then fired in rapid succession some two-score of questions in regard to everything that the man had done for several days before Memorial day and also how Mary Phagan looked and what she wore. Apparently he was cool as though he was not under such a gruelling fire the witness answered every question except one; he could not tell how the dead girl's hair was trimmed.

The solicitor made a vigorous objection to the manner in which the questions were put, declaring that Mr. Rosser would not give the witness a chance to answer one question before he would ask him to answer another one.

Then after being asked a number of detailed questions about his trip to the factory on the day Buckhead car, the witness was excused.

English Avenue Car Sometimes Ahead of Schedule, Says Witness

J. H. Hendricks, a motorman running on the Marietta and Stone Mountain on April 26, was put on the stand following Miss Nellie Wood.

By him the state sought to show that the English avenue car, in charge of Motorman W. M. Mathews, and Conductor W. T. Hollis, frequently was brought down ahead of schedule at the lunch hour, so that Conductor Hollis might catch the Marietta to the Nook Yards car and go home to lunch.

Hendricks said that the English called for him to get to the corner of Broad and Marietta streets at 6 minutes after 12.

"Did you ever get there on time?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"Yes."

The defense entered an objection to this and it was ruled out.

"I want to show by this witness that on April 26 Hollis went home with him when he was relieved about noon," said Mr. Dorsey.

"What time did you get to Broad and Marietta streets about noon on Memorial day?" Mr. Dorsey continued, turning to the witness.

"I can't say exactly; I guess we got there on about the scheduled time."

Prior to April 26, did the English avenue car in charge of Motorman Mathews and Conductor Hollis ever get to the center of town ahead of time?"

"It did."

"Do you know what time Mathews and Hollis got relieved for dinner?"

"Yes; they were relieved at 12:07."

"Short," objected Rosser. "April 26 did Mathews and Hollis ever get there before 12:07?"

Attorney Rosser objected, but Judge Roan allowed the question.

"Yes; they got there ahead of time," replied the witness.

"How much ahead of time?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"As much as three or four minutes."

"What time did you get there?"

"At 12:06."

"When their car was ahead of time and your car got there on time, where was their car?"

"It would have already passed."

"Where should it have been?"

"It should have been just coming in when we got there."

"When your car would be there on time and Hollis' car had already gone, what would Hollis do in reference to his dinner?" was the next question Mr. Dorsey asked.

"He would get on my car and ride out to dinner."

"Do you remember what time you got to the center of town on April 26?" asked Attorney Rosser on cross-examination.

"I don't remember that particular day."

"You may leave the stand," said Mr. Rosser.

Character of Hopkins Woman Is Attacked by Many Witnesses

Following the appearance of Daisy Hopkins on the stand, a battle was waged on the attempt of the prosecution to inject certain testimony into evidence. A large number of character witnesses were presented to testify to the character of Dalton, and against that of the Hopkins woman.

She was the first witness produced in rebuttal by the prosecution.

"Do you know anything about a cot in the basement of the pencil factory?" she was asked by Dorsey.

"No," was her answer.

"Do you remember going down the ladder from the scuttle hole?"

"I don't know anything about the ladder."

"Are you acquainted with Bob Goddard, Dr. R. S. Pound, Superintendent Smith, J. Ballard and Walter P. Merck?"

"Yes."

"What did you say when last on the stand in reference to your husbands?"

"I said that I had been married only once."

"Didn't you say you had two living husbands?"

"No."

"Do you remember meeting Merck one recent Saturday afternoon?"

Coming From Pencil Factory.

"Yes, he asked me where I was going and I told him I was coming from the pencil factory."

An objection was made to this question and answer, to which the solicitor replied:

"We expect to show by this man Merck that he met her on Whitehall street, and, asking her where she was going, received the answer that she was on her way to the pencil factory. Also, that he went to her home that night and all an amusement, and was told by her that she had gone to the pencil factory a few hours previously and had participated in unnatural immoral conduct with a foreman of the plant. The ladies, if they desire, may leave the courtroom, as this testimony will be unsavory."

Mrs. Frank and her mother left their seats and the courtroom.

Mr. Arnold said:

"Mr. Dorsey's theories—the ones he is advancing now—involve so many persons and so many various crimes, that the original charge of murder has been obscured. We have confined our remarks thus far, to the allusion made by Conley and Dalton. Dorsey is seeking to impeach Daisy Hopkins by saying that she had been to the pencil factory with some foreman, not Frank."

Judge Roan ruled that it was unfair to introduce other crimes against the defendant, and, that it was irrelevant to accept hearsay evidence.

In reply to which Mr. Arnold said: "Surely, Frank cannot be held responsible for all the intercourse which took place in the pencil factory or Atlanta."

Roan further ruled that he would exclude any specific crime.

Other Character Witnesses.

Following the removal of Daisy Hopkins from the stand the following character witnesses were presented in behalf of Dalton. They were subjected to but little cross-examination and many did not receive any at all.

J. R. Floyd, a farmer of Redan, Ga., stated the woman's character was bad and that he would not believe her on oath. On direct examination he declared that Daisy Hopkins, following the murder, had told him of Leo Frank and a cot in the basement of the factory building.

Bob Goddard, of DeKalb county, stated that he had known her character for twenty years, that it was bad and that he would not believe her on oath.

Henry Goddard, of Stone Mountain, stated the same.

Henry Cobb, of Redan, stated he would not believe her on oath, along with W. J. Ballard, J. M. Cook, of Social Circle; W. A. Elder, of Decatur; A. B. Houston, of Decatur; J. G. Bowen, of Decatur; W. M. Wright, of Atlanta; C. B. Dalton, of DeKalb county; F. B. Heflin, of 121 Gordon street, city; W. C. Hale, of Atlanta; Policeman J. M. Boyce, of Atlanta; Gordon Causey, of Atlanta; J. W. Hunt, of Atlanta, and Policeman W. C. Patrick, of Atlanta, all testified to Dalton's good character, declaring that they would believe him on oath.

Clashes Between Lawyers Mark Effort to Impeach Negro Cook

E. H. Pickett, an employee of the Beck & Gregg Hardware company, and the man mentioned by Roy Craven on the witness stand, was next put up as a witness for the state.

He corroborated what Craven said and through him the state made an open fight to impeach Minola McKnight and also to contradict Mrs. Emil Selig, who, on cross-examination, denied that conversation she is said to have had with the cook in urging her to keep quiet about what she had seen at the Frank home.

"Were you present when this affidavit of Minola McKnight was signed?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"Yes."

"Who signed it?"

"Minola McKnight."

"Did you talk to her before she signed it?"

"Yes."

"Who was present before she signed it?"

Present When She Signed It.

"Detectives Campbell and Starnes, Roy Craven, George Gordon, the woman's lawyer; Albert McKnight, her husband, and myself," said Pickett.

"Tell us what she said just before she signed the paper?" said Mr. Dorsey.

"We asked her about what Albert had told us and at first she refused to talk, and then she denied it all. After a few minutes she admitted a few of the things Albert had told us she had told him."

"What were some of the first things she admitted?"

"She first acknowledged that she had been cautioned by Mrs. Emil Selig to keep her mouth shut about what she had seen and heard in the Frank or Selig home, then she acknowledged that she had been given a little more money than her actual wages."

"Then the woman got hysterical again and declared she would not talk before the detectives and they went out of the room," Pickett continued.

"Finally she told us that she had been cautioned not to tell anything that she knew, but that what Albert had told us was true, continued Pickett.

"Mr. Craven then began to write in long hand her statement, as we had no stenographer there then."

"Does that affidavit contain anything that the woman did not say?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"It does not," replied Pickett.

Mr. Rosser objected to that.

Part of Affidavit All Right.

Judge Roan then stated that he would not rule out the entire affidavit, but that if there was anything irrelevant in it, he would have to rule that out.

"For instance," said the judge, "if the affidavit contains a statement about a conversation between Mrs. Frank and her mother-in-law made when they were not present, that part could not go in evidence."

"I want to go over with this witness everything that is held relevant," Mr. Dorsey announced.

"All right," replied Judge Roan.

"What did Minola first say in regard to Frank and his dinner?"

"She first declared he ate dinner," Pickett replied.

"What did she say later?"

"Later she admitted that Frank ate no dinner."

"What did she first say about the time Frank stayed at the house at lunch hour on April 26?"

"She first said he stayed there long enough to eat his meal."

"What did she later say?"

"Later she admitted that he ate no dinner and that he left the house about ten minutes after he had entered it."

"What did Minola first say about Albert being there at the time?"

"She first declared he was not there," replied Pickett.

"Later—"

"Later she swore that he had been there."

"What did she say at first as to whether or not Selig discussed the killing at the dinner table Sunday?"

Attorney Rosser objected at once and Judge Roan ruled that the state might ask about what conversation took place in Frank's presence or what he said or was asked.

Changed Her Statement.

"Well, what did the cook say in regard to a conversation at dinner that Sunday in the Selig home about the killing and in which discussion Frank took part?" asked Dorsey.

"She first said Albert was lying when he said she had told him of that."

"What did she say later?"

"Later she admitted having heard the conversation," replied the witness.

"What did she first say about having been cautioned to keep quiet on what she knew?"

Attorney Rosser objected to this question.

"Your honor, Mrs. Emil Selig, on the stand, denied that she had ever cautioned the cook to keep quiet, and Minola on the stand also denied that she had ever been so cautioned."

"I will put your question again," said Judge Roan.

The solicitor then asked it and the witness continued: "Minola had first denied that she had ever been cautioned to keep quiet, but that later she had acknowledged it.

"It's immaterial and no matter who it contradicts, it can't go on record," burst out Attorney Rosser.

"Your honor," he continued," suppose one of the witnesses had got up here on the stand and swore that Mary never had a little lamb, why Dorsey over there would want to impeach that witness on as immaterial a thing as that."

"Your honor," said Attorney Frank A. Hooper, who up to this point had kept out of the wrangle, "just give me a chance and I will show you that this subject is admissible. This witness here on the stand may be used to impeach a score of witnesses and one statement from him may do it.

May Impeach Many Witnesses.

"That statement was obtained from the witness in order that the state might contradict Mrs. Selig, who swore on the stand that no such conversation ever took place. Now we are impeaching Minola McKnight, but that does not keep us from contradicting, or impeaching another witness at the same time."

After further points by Attorney Hooper, Judge Roan ruled that the question might go in. The defense registered a formal objection but made no further argument.

Mr. Dorsey then had the witness tell how the negro cook had first denied being cautioned to keep quiet, but that later she had admitted it.

"What did the woman first say about her version of Mr. Dorsey was asked.

The defense registered a formal objection to this, but Judge Roan allowed it.

"She first said her wages were the same as usual," said the witness.

"What did she later say?"

"Later she said she had been given more money."

"What did she say about being given a hat by Mrs. Frank?"

"I make the same objection to that, your honor," said Mr. Arnold.

"All right," replied Judge Roan, "let it go on record."

"At first Minola did not mention a hat, and we knew nothing about her having been given one," said the witness. "but later she admitted that Mrs. Frank had given her one."

"Who first mentioned a hat before her?"

"She did first," said the witness.

"Did anybody threaten her?"

"No, all we did was to ask her questions."

Detectives Not There.

"When you were questioning her were Detectives Campbell and Starnes there?"

"No."

"When did they come in?"

"They came in later when we called them."

"Where was her attorney?"

"He came in with the detectives."

Mr. Rosser took up the cross-examination.

"When Minola made her first statement why didn't you take that for the truth?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"We didn't believe what she said," replied the witness.

"Was she then in jail?"

"No, she was at the police station."

"Just as bad, just as bad," commented Mr. Rosser.

"Did you go to see Dorsey?"

"Yes."

"Why did you go there?"

"Because I had promised Albert I would try to get him to get out."

"What did Dorsey say to you?"

"He said he was willing for Craven and I to go on the woman's bond."

"Didn't you know the police had to do that?"

"Well, I know Mr. Dorsey said he was willing for the woman to get out on bond."

Wanted to Get Statement.

"Well, why did you grill her for three hours instead of getting her out?" snapped Attorney Rosser.

"We wanted to get a statement from her before we got her out."

"No, you all knew that if you got her to tell the story that these detectives here wanted her to tell that then he would be turned loose," said Mr. Rosser, pointing at Detectives Campbell and Starnes, who sat with the solicitor.

"I knew no such thing," retorted the witness.

"You told her that if she admitted to be true what Albert claimed that she could get out, didn't you?"

"I did not and neither did anyone else while I was there."

"The police treated her mighty nice after she said what they wanted her to say, didn't they," said Attorney Rosser with a series of grimaces and gestures, which he later termed as "monkey-motions" and declared he knew the witness nor no one else could imitate.

"It's correct that they treated her nice and turned her out after she had said what she did, but it don't sound nice because as far as I know they had always treated her——"

"No, it don't sound nice, does it?" thundered Rosser.

Rap Stops Laughter.

There was a general laugh in the courtroom and deputies had to rap sharply for order.

"You knew this woman was there because she would not say what the police wanted her to say, didn't you?" asserted the attorney.

"I knew she was being held to get some sort of a statement from her in regard to what her husband had said."

"Did you want there to get her to make the statement that the detectives wanted?"

"I had no intention of getting her to make any particular statement, except the truth," replied Mr. Pickett. He was then excused from the stand.

MRS. SELIG IDENTIFIES SUIT WORN BY FRANK

The first witness upon the stand at the morning session was Mrs. Emil Selig, mother-in-law of the accused man, who identified the suit of clothes worn by Frank on the day of the murder. The clothes were then put in evidence by the defense.

Following her came Wiley Roberts, inner jailer at the Tower, who told of being requested by Jim Conley to receive newspapers in his cell. He told that the negro had often asked for the papers pertaining to the case.

NEW CHRYSANTHEMUM NAMED FOR MRS. WILSON

Washington, August 19.—"Mrs. Wilson" is the name of a new type of chrysanthemum developed by experts of the department of agriculture for the department's annual autumn flower show. Named in honor of the wife of the president, the new bloom is said to be a magnificent specimen. Other striking blooms have been christened "Margaret," "Jessie" and "Eleanor" after the three daughters of President and Mrs. Wilson.

Sideboard in Leo Frank's Home Moved, Asserts Husband of Cook

Albert McKnight, husband of Minola McKnight, the negro cook for the family of Emil Selig, with whom Leo Frank and his wife made their home, was introduced to the stand following E. H. Pickett.

Mr. Hooper drew from the negro the statement that since the day he stood in the kitchen door and saw Leo Frank's reflection in the dining room sideboard glass that the sideboard had been moved.

The negro was made to go over a blue print diagram of the Selig home and show what he claimed was the location of the sideboard on the day of the murder and at the time he claims he saw that Frank ate no dinner and remained only a few minutes at the dinner table.

There was a bitter wrangle over the negro's statements, the defense claiming that it had all been gone over when he was first on the stand, and the state contending that the blue print had been introduced after he had been on the stand, and that they had a right to examine him upon it.

Judge Roan held that the statae might question the witness on the blue print, but that they could not go over his original statements.

"I want to know by this witness that since that day that the sideboard in the Selig home has been moved," said Mr. Hooper.

The McKnight negro then swore that the sideboard had been moved, and the state ended its questions.

"Did you see anybody move it?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"No, but it ain't now where it was then," replied the negro.

"Oh, you are just going by the plat?" said Mr. Rosser.

"I'se going by where you say it is," he replied.

The witness was then excused.

girl he was turned over to the tender mercies of Mr. Rosser.

Grilled by Rosser.

"What time did you go to work that day?" was the first question asked him.

"At 4:45 that morning."

"What time did you get off?"

"At 11:40."

"Where were you relieved?"

"At the Constitution building."

"Were you off duty at the time you say you saw Mary Phagan?"

"I was."

"Why didn't you tell all this at the inquest?"

"I was not called upon."

"Did you tell it to anybody?"

"Yes, a number of people."

"Name some of them, name just one."

"Well, I told it to James Means."

"Haven't you made yourself a perfect nuisance on the cars by villifying this man, Frank?" said Mr. Rosser, pointing to the defendant, "and haven't you gone so far and talked so much that passengers have had to complain to the officials of the company?"

"No, that's not true," said the motorman.

Defense Wins a Point.

Solicitor Dorsey came to the rescue of his witness and a bitter row ensued between the state and the defense. Judge Roan allowed the defense to go ahead.

"You went around telling people that Frank was guilty and you knew it because his children had told your children, didn't you?" shouted Attorney Rosser at the witness.

Motorman Kenley laughed and answered that he had gone no such thing.

"Didn't you say before T. Y. Brent, standing right here before you, and before Miss Haas, too, that Frank ought to be lynched and that you would be glad to lead the lynching party?"

"Your honor, I submit, there's nobody in the world who could answer questions as rapidly as Mr. Rosser is firing them," protested Attorney Frank Hooper.

"Let the witness have time to answer, Mr. Rosser," said the judge.

"Did not you say you'd be willing to lead a party to lynch Frank?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"No."

Must Be Definite.

"Your honor, I ask is it right to allow the defense to make all these insinuations before the jury and not give the time and place they are alleged to have occurred?" protested Mr. Dorsey.

"They must be definite," stated the judge.

"Well, didn't you say in the presence of a Miss Haas that you would be glad to lead a party to lynch Frank?"

"I certainly did not."

After several more questions the witness was excused.

Dr. Clarence Johnson Is Called To Corroborate Dr. Roy Harris

Dr. Clarence Johnson, a well-known specialist, who was put up by the prosecution in rebuttal of the testimony offered by the defense in attacking that of Dr. Roy Harris, was the final witness during the afternoon session.

His testimony was stopped in the middle of its narration in order to give the solicitor time to investigate authorities on a medical subject on which Mr. Dorsey was questioning the witness at the time a discussion arose between the prosecution and defense.

"What is your business?" he was asked by the solicitor.

"I am a practitioner of medicine, with a specialty of stomach diseases."

"What is a pathologist?"

"A man who examines stomachs in any shape."

"What is a physiologist?"

An objection was put to this question, the defense striving to show that the state had already shown what was a pathologist and a physiologist.

Judge Roan ruled with the defense.

"The specimens which pathologist investigate, how are they preserved?"

"In anaesthetic."

"Do they not place specimens in formaldehyde?"

"I would not care to quote authority on that subject."

"Would you give cabbage at 12 to a person who had drunk chocolate milk at 6?"

"Yes."

"If the chocolate milk was perceptible in the contents vomited seven hours later, would that indicate a normal or abnormal stomach?"

"Abnormal."

It was while the witness was being questioned regarding his opinion of the time of Mary Phagan's death, determined by condition of the contents of her stomach, when court adjourned.

Gordon Sharply Cross-Examined For Statement About Dorsey

George Gordon, the attorney for Minola McKnight, was called to testify to incidents at the police station when the negro woman made the famous affidavit which she repudiated in court several days ago.

A sensation was sprung when he declared that Solicitor Dorsey had told him that he would not order his client's release from police station because he did not want to "get in bad" with the detective department.

He was examined by the solicitor.

"Were you present at police headquarters when Minola McKnight made her affidavit?"

"Yes. I went down and found her locked inside a room in the detective bureau. The detectives informed me that I could not see her, and would have to wait outside until she was released. I demanded entrance, and later was admitted. When I got in her presence a stenographer, Mr. Feburary, was reading her some shorthand notes which she had made. The stenographer was sent out to transcribe the notes. Starnes told me the statement of the woman must be kept absolutely secret, but the next day I saw it in all three of the newspapers.

"I asked that they turn the woman loose, and to this end I went to consult Hugh Dorsey. Dorsey told me that he would not give an order releasing the woman for fear of getting in bad with the detective department."

The witness was given the McKnight affidavit for examination.

"When I came back from Dorsey's office," he said, "this paper had been previously prepared and signed."

"Did you hear Minola say anything about her statement?" the solicitor asked.

Acknowledged Affidavit.

"This paper I hold in my hand is the substance of what Febuary read over to her. My recollection is that she acknowledged the affidavit."

Rosser on cross-examination.

"Did you make any effort to get the woman until Mrs. Selig requested so."

"Yes, they had her in a cell, and, at first, I was unable to even see her."

"Who was it causing this false imprisonment, Starnes or Chief Bonyers?"

"Beavers had something to do with it. He said he was not going to turn her out until Mrs. Selig said so. He said he had no warrant against her; that he held her on suspicion. I went to Mr. Beavers before making provisions for the woman's comfort."

"You mean to say that the solicitor of this circuit, when you went to make bond for a witness, said he wouldn't do it because he didnt want to get in bad with the detective department?"

"That was just about what he said."

Dorsey Resumes Examination.

Dorsey, resuming direct examination.

"Didn't I tell you that they had no right to lock her up without a warrant or order?"

"It was I who said it. You agreed to my statement."

"Do you say that I told you that I had nothing to do with having her arrested?"

"You did not."

"Did Minola make at least half of this statement in your presence?"

"I think so."

"What were the questions you asked her regarding it?"

"I can't recall."

"Was either Pat Campbell or John Starnes in the room while the statement was being made?"

"They had me locked on the outside. I couldn't see through the door."

Roy Craven Called to Tell Jury Of Minola McKnight Affidavit

Roy Craven of Kirkwood, an employee of the Beck & Gregg Hardware company, where Albert McKnight was working when his wife, Minola McKnight, cook for Emil Selig, was taken to police station on June 3, followed Dr. Benedict to the stand.

According to Craven, Albert McKnight had appealed to him and to E. H. Pickett to do something to help him get Minola out of the station house. Mr. Craven told of being present when she had made the sensational affidavit which the state produced and which she denied on the stand.

The witness swore the negro woman made the statement after first declaring she knew nothing of it and the state contended that not until she was again approached by the Franks and Seligs did she deny it.

"Do you know Albert McKnight?" was the first question after the identity of the witness had been established.

"Yes."

"Do you know Minola McKnight?"

"I do."

"Where did you last see Minola?"

"At the station house."

"Did you hear her make a statement in regard to the Frank case?"

"Yes."

"Well, where did Albert work?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

He worked where I did; with the Beck & Gregg Hardware company.

"Are you, or have you ever, been connected with the police?"

"No, sir, and never have been connected with the police."

Went at Albert's Request.

"Then, why did you talk to this woman in regard to what she knew of the Frank case?"

"Albert asked me to do something to get her out from under arest."

Mr. Dorsey then showed the witness the affidavit introduced into court by the state and which the negro cook says she signed in order that she might get out of the station house. The witness identified it.

"Previous to the time when she signed this had you ever seen Minola McKnight?"

"Yes."

"Where?"

"At her house."

"Who else was there at the time?"

"Mr. E. H. Pickett went with me, and Albert was there and also one of his sisters, I believe, she was."

"Why did you go there?"

Attorney Rosser objected to this question and the solicitor then asked, "Did the police or anyone connected with my office have anything to do with your going to the woman's house?"

"No," replied Craven.

Mr. Rosser entered another objection.

"In view of the statements and claims made by Mr. Rosser and in justice to these detectives and myself, I ought to be allowed to show the reason why he went there," said Mr. Dorsey.

Judge Roan said he would rule later on the question.

"Give the jury then," said Mr. Dorsey, "your best idea of the time you first went to the woman's house."

On Attorney Rosser's objection, the solicitor told witness this question, and asked Craven when he had gone to the woman's house. The witness replied that it was some time in May, but that he could not remember the exact day.

"Who was there, now, besides you and Mr. Pickett?"

"Albert McKnight and his sister and Minola."

What Woman Said.

"Tell what Minola said on June 3 at the police station, give the circumstances and everything about it," said Mr. Dorsey.

"Well, we first told her what Albert had told us about her saying that she had heard the Franks and Seligs talking about the crime and that they had urged her to keep quiet and also that she had heard Mrs. Frank tell Mrs. Selig that Leo Frank had not slept on Saturday night and that he had asked for a pistol to kill himself.

"At first Minola would not talk," said Craven, "and I went on and told her what Albert had said about being there on Memorial day at lunch, and how Frank had come in and not eaten anything and left in a short time, not staying at home over ten minutes.

"At first Minola denied it all, and swore Albert had been telling lies on her.

"Who was present while the woman was saying this?" interrupted Mr. Dorsey.

"Starnes and Campbell, the detectives, and a lawyer named Gordon and Mr. Pickett and I and Albert," replied Craven.

"Who was there when you first questioned her?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"Mr. Pickett and Albert and I."

Mr. Rosser took up the cross-examination.

"What time was that?"

"About 7:30 o'clock."

"Didn't you know the woman had been there for twelve hours already?"

"I did not."

Sharp Retort by Witness.

"Did you not know that she had been put in jail because she would not say for the police what they wanted her to say?"

"No, I didn't know that, and don't know it now," said Craven.

"Did you go to Dorsey's office before you talked to the woman at the station house?"

"Yes."

"Why did you go there?"

"I had promised Albert to help him get his wife out."

"You say she denied all that Albert had said?"

"Yes, she did that at first."

"Didn't Dorsey tell you the woman would not talk?"

"He said she had been hysterical, and that he could get nothing out of her," replied Craven.

"You wanted to make her agree with what her husband had said, now didn't you?" said Mr. Rosser in an insinuating tone.

"All I wanted was to get her to tell the truth."

"Did you get her out?"

"No, when I left the station house she was still there, but she got out later."

"All you wanted to do then was to make her agree with her husband and then you were through, weren't you?"

"No, I wanted to find out the truth of the matter."

Denies Acting for Dorsey.

"Didn't Dorsey tell you to question her?"

"No, he told me that Detectives Campbell and Starnes were at the station house, and that they would tell me whether or not I could see the woman."

"Did you ask anybody there to let her out?"

"No."

"You never tried to get her out of the station house, did you?"

"I spoke to Mr. Dorsey about it."

"Did anybody curse or mistreat this woman while you were there," asked Mr. Dorsey as Mr. Rosser finished.

"No, they did not."

"You don't know what they had done to her before you got there, do you?" fired back Attorney Rosser.

"Of course, I don't know what happened before I got there," the witness replied. He was then excused.

Dorsey then tendered in evidence all of Minola McKnight's affidavits. Upon the defense's objection, Judge Roan announced that he would rule on it later.

SWEARS HE WOULD NOT BELIEVE DAISY HOPKINS ON OATH

Walter P. Marck, a street car motorman, was called to the stand to tell of a talk he had with Daisy Hopkins a short time before the murder, in her apartments at Walker and Peters street.

"Do you know Daisy Hopkins?"

"Yes."

"Ever meet her?"

"Yes. One Saturday afternoon at Whitehall and Alabama streets."

"What did she say to you as to where you were going?"

"She said she was on her way to the pencil factory."

"Did you see her afterward?"

"Yes. That night in her rooms."

"Did she tell you where she had been that afternoon?"

"Yes; she said she had been to the pencil factory."

Because of a previous ruling of Judge Roan's, the prosecution was not allowed to question the witness regarding the remainder of the girl's conversation.

"Would you believe her on oath?"

"No."

Rosser on cross-examination:

"Does the company know your character?"

The question was overruled and the witness permitted to leave the stand.

RABBI J. M. LEVINE FORMALLY INSTALLED

The formal installation of Rabbi J. M. Levine as rabbi of the Congregation Beth Hamidrash Hagadol Anshe Sephorad, which synagogue is located at 222 Woodward avenue, took place Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Owing to the crowd present it was necessary to hold the services in a hall at 86 Central avenue.

Among those who were present and spoke at the installation of Rabbi Levine were W. Woods White, Leo Frank, L. Pfeffer, D. Zaban. The latter presented a contribution to the new Rabbi from his parishioners.

Rabbi Levine, who for the past six years was rabbi of the Congregation Ahavath Achim in this city, is a Russian by birth, and a man of high scholarship and learning. He came to this country twenty years ago, and had his first congregation in Fall River, Mass. Since then he has been in charge of some of the largest synagogues in the country.

LAURENS MURDER CASE NOW IN SUPREME COURT

Attorneys Davis and New, of Dublin, Ga., for Alonzo L. Lynn, who was convicted in the Laurens' superior court last January for the murder of F. M. Hightower, an aged confederate veteran, filed a bill of exceptions to the supreme court August 18, after Judge Hawkins had refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus to Lynn. The writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Laurens' superior court on July 26.

The action of counsel in filing the petition for habeas corpus in the superior court at Dublin came after a sensational statement made by Raymond Blash, the state's star witness, that he had lied outright on the witness stand in regard to his statement that he saw with her husband and then you were through, weren't you?" that he killed Mr. Hightower, and then afterwards run out through the back door into his field.

Through their bill of exceptions filed in the supreme court, counsel for Lynn hopes to get a hearing in about three weeks, on the refusal of Judge Hawkins to grant Lynn an issue of habeas corpus.

FATALLY HURT IN FALL WHILE LEAVING TRAIN

While attempting to get off a Southern train at Buford, Ga., early Tuesday morning, H. A. Bailey, of Bear Creek, Ala., in some manner fell, and was so seriously injured that he was brought to Atlanta, where he died at noon from concussion of the brain.

The body was taken to Patterson's funeral chapel, and will be held there until his relatives are heard from in Alabama.

LUTHERANS OF MACON PLAN $40,000 CHURCH

Macon, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Rev. T. B. Epting, missionary pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Georgia, with headquarters at Brunswick, is in Macon for the purpose of looking over the field here, looking towards the organization of a Lutheran church here. There are about seventy-five Lutherans in Macon, and it has been decided to hold an organization meeting October 1. It is planned to erect a modern church building to cost not less than $40,000.

MANUFACTURERS' SHOW ASSURED FOR ATLANTA

Asa G. Candler Tells How Permanent Exhibit Will Benefit Gate City.

A permanent exhibit of Atlanta-made goods in the new chamber building was practically assured at the meeting of Atlanta manufacturers held in the Hotel Ansley Tuesday.

Asa G. Candler was present, and urged the establishing of the exhibit in forcible words, and stated that he was going to take space immediately.

"I have visited cities in every part of the country, and have seen the good which such exhibits are doing," he said. "In Los Angeles, that city which in a few years has grown from 25,000 souls to a half million. I saw the wonderful results they obtained from such an exhibit. In Kansas City, and elsewhere, these exhibits have helped to build up the community wonderfully.

V. H. Kreigshaber announced that council had passed a bill, authorizing a special committee to arrange for space in which the city would exhibit its various municipal activities, particularly with reference to schools and other large public improvements.

In speaking of how the exhibit would be managed, Wilmer L. Moore said: "We have figured out the cost of space carefully. It is fully 25 per cent lower than in Richmond and other cities. Yet this amount will show a surplus of from five to six thousand dollars yearly, which will be used in securing a high-class man to take charge of the exhibit and provide telephone service, etc. The remainder of the surplus will be used in advertising and exploiting the exhibit on a large scale."

O. T. Camp, president of the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' association, made a strong talk in favor of Atlanta-made goods, and stated that this association would boost the home-made products in every street, and would give over each Wednesday to "Atlanta-made day." At the conclusion of the luncheon a number of manufacturers who had hitherto not signed took space.

W. H. Leahy, head of the industrial and statistical bureau, is in active charge of the proposed exhibit for the present.

C. H. KELLY SWORN IN

Mayor Asks City Attorney for Ruling on Action.

C. H. Kelly, former water commissioner, who was elected by council Monday afternoon to succeed John E. McClelland as alderman from the second ward, was sworn in by Mayor James G. Woodward yesterday morning.

Although he administered the oath at the request of Alderman Kelly, Mayor Woodward is in serious doubt about the legality of his action, and has asked City Attorney Mayson for a ruling as to whether or not the oath can be administered at any time other than at a regular session. If the city attorney rules that the mayor acted in accordance with his oprews, Alderman Kelly will participate in the meeting of the aldermanic board Thursday afternoon.

Alderman Kelly is anxious to get into the council, and informal chat with Mayor Woodward Tuesday morning he made the declaration that he will not allow himself to be swayed by any "line-up" influence in council.

His colleagues in council have made it plain that he will lead the fight for the improvement of South Pryor street.

WET BATHING SKIRT CAUSES GIRL'S DEATH

New York, August 19.—Miss Margaret Valentine, 21 years old, was killed at Edgemere, L. I., when the wet skirt of her bathing suit caused a short circuit with the third rail of the Long Island railroad tracks, which she was crossing to reach her home.

While in the surf Miss Wesley was taken with a chill and hastily started for home. She had to cross three tracks with unprotected third rails. Having crossed two, and was about to step between the third rail of this and the third rail of the middle track, she suddenly leaped to her wet skirt from the live rail of the first track and dragged her across the rail of the middle track. The body showed slight burns on the elbows and the left hand.

Good Roads for Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., August 19.—Governor George W. Hays today in a proclamation set aside September 3 and 4 as "good roads day" throughout Arkansas, asking all persons who are interested in better highways on these days to contribute whatever they can to the advancement of highways by holding public meetings.

State Suffers a Severe Blow When Testimony Is Ruled Out

Miss Nellie Wood, a former employee of the National Pencil factory, whom the state claims left there because on the second day she was there Frank got her into his office and made indecent proposals to her, was put on the stand following the McKnight negro.

After bitter wrangles with the jury out of the courtroom, Judge Roan ruled that the woman could not tell that Frank had made these proposals to her, but that all she could tell about was what she had heard Frankey say in regard to his character before the day of the murder. It was a severe blow to the state and only came after Solicitor Dorsey and Attorney Hooper had invoked every point they knew to fight it. Mr. Dorsey declared that the court had allowed the defense to ask the factory girls if Frank had ever on any occasion made improper proposals to them and that now he refused to let the state ask the same question of the witness on the stand.

Mr. Dorsey also declared that this decision would also keep him from putting up a witness later to swear that he had seen Frank in an indecent position with a woman in a dark part of the factory.

Judge Roan replied that he did not know about that, but that he would wait until that subject was taken up.

The jury was then brought back.

"Miss Wood, where do you live?" asked the solicitor.

"In Ormewood park," she replied.

"Do you know the general character of Leo Frank up to and including April 26, 1913?"

The witness began to say she knew nothing about it, but the question intended and were upheld, that she must answer yes or no.

"Yes," she finally said. "No."

"I've been misled by this witness," said Mr. Dorsey.

"What was it you told me in my office?" inquired the solicitor, when the defense got that ruled out also.

Mr. Dorsey then declared that he wanted to refresh her memory, but Judge Roan ruled against him in every thing he suggested and with rather a crestfallen air, he said: "That will do."

"Come down, come down" shouted Attorney Rosser quickly, and the witness left the room.

Denies He Said He Was Willing To Lead Party to Lynch Frank

George Kenley, a street car motorman, was put on the stand after M. E. McCoy, and on cross examination Attorney Rosser tried to draw from him the statements that he had villified Leo Frank to such an extent that he had made himself a nuisance to passengers on his car, and that he had repeatedly said he would be willing to head a party to lynch Frank.

Kenley was put up by the state and swore that he saw Mary Phagan on Forsyth street near the bridge, and that she was rushing her way in the factory. He said it was a few minutes after noon, but that he could not be positive. He was subjected to a grilling even more severe than given to McCoy.

After he had testified to seeing the

DODGE

The Guarantee Is Stamped in the Bar

Dodge Bearing Metal was put upon the market because it made a success in the great Dodge factory.

For years Dodge had studied to produce a bearing metal for their own use—one that would run at varying speeds—producing the greatest efficiency in the shops.

That Dodge Bearing Metal is successful is proven by the fact that we have used it in the Dodge factory for twenty years.

It was put on the market as the result of an insistent demand for our formula.

Dodge Bearing Metal will meet every mill requirement, ranging from light loads and low speeds to high speeds and heavy loads. Dodge Bearing Metal will not only last longer—but saves the cost of relining the bearing.

We will prepay the freight on the trial order of 100 lbs., so that you, too, may put wings on your power line.

Dodge Bearing Metal is packed 50 lbs. to the box. We will ship you a box on approval, prepaying the freight if your order calls for 100 lbs. After a fair trial you may send the balance back if it does not prove every claim we make for it and we will refund your money.

THE PERMANENT EXHIBIT.

The permanent exhibit of Atlanta's industries is about to materialize.

With the exhibits already signed up and those in sight it is expected that the movement will culminate at today's meeting and that definite announcement can be made at once of the success of the undertaking to bring together under one roof a permanent exhibit of the products of the manufacturing industries of Atlanta.

Several manufacturers who ought to be represented in this exhibit have not as yet responded. If they withhold their co-operation the whole movement may fail. The Constitution does not for an instant believe that any manufacturing establishment in Atlanta whose participation is expected will refuse to join the movement, thus jeopardizing the success of a public enterprise which means so much for the city.

Immediate action is necessary and it is to be hoped that every manufacturer whose name is not already on this honor roll will see to it that it is put there before night.

The movement is one which means so much from the standpoint of civic pride. It does not promise immediate personal return, but the ultimate benefit to the city as a whole guarantees a splendid return to each participant.

It is not Atlanta's way to undertake, and then abandon, a movement of this sort and if today does not bring about the definite success of this enterprise The Constitution will be very much disappointed.

"BILL SMITH DAY."

They say it's the birthday of William Andrew Smith, formerly of Springfield, Ohio, but now of Atlanta, Georgia, and manager of Atlanta's baseball team.

As an advertiser of the city of Atlanta, Bill Smith deserves appropriate recognition. He has put the city on the baseball map by winning two pennants, and he is working hard to keep it there by winning a third.

The Atlanta fans and their friends should turn out in full force today, and let Bill Smith and the Crackers know they are there. Whatever may be the outcome of the game,—and Atlanta will help to make it ours,—the Birmingham Barons should feel, on departing, that they have been somewhere.

A PITIABLE CASE.

No man in public life has made a greater parade of his virtue than Governor Sulzer. As a member of congress, representing a district in New York's populous east side, and as a candidate for chief executive, he often made profession of his irreproachable integrity.

In assuming the duties of his elevated office, Mr. Sulzer said:

"I am free; without entanglements, and will remain free. No influence controls me, but the dictates of my conscience and my determination to do my duty, day in and day out, as I see the right, and regardless of consequences. In the future I will walk in the street called straight. Whatever I do as governor will be open and above board. I shall confide in the people."

And now Sulzer is out, pending trial on impeachment, and Lieutenant Governor Slynn is acting governor. Even if Sulzer gets through with an acquittal, he is ruined for life.

It is a pitiable case at best.

THE WAYWARD GIRLS' HOME.

Governor Slaton yesterday approved the measure carrying an appropriation of $10,000 for the establishment of the state reformatory for wayward girls, with $10,000 additional for maintenance.

The establishment of this institution has been made possible by the brighter outlook for the state finances incident to the enactment of the state equalization tax measure.

At first it appeared that it would be impossible to get this appropriation through the general assembly, notwithstanding the tremendous pressure brought to bear from every part of the state and especially from the women of Georgia.

When the fact is taken into consideration that an appropriation for $20,000 represents a tax valuation of $4,000,000 it will be seen that the step taken by the general assembly, and now approved by the governor, in authorizing the establishment of this institution is a very important one.

Of course, as the institution grows and demonstrates its usefulness it will cost the state more and more, but the initial appropriation will no doubt stand at least until the meeting of the new general assembly, which assembles two years hence. In the present status of its finances the state has taken an exceedingly commendatory step in committing itself to the policy of establishing any new institution, but the worthiness of this appeal has been such as to fully justify the exception made by the general assembly.

The state has operated a reformatory for boys for several years. This year there are two hundred boys, seventy of them white, in the Milledgeville institution. These youthful offenders against law and society instead of being merely imprisoned and punished are being subjected to influences intended to cure their evil tendencies. They are being educated and trained for moral self-support and useful citizenship.

The state cannot afford to do less for its wayward girls than it does for its offending boys; indeed, the influence of an evil woman is worse than the influence of an unreformed man.

There never has been any doubt as to Governor Slaton's very cordial support of the principle underlying this measure. Had the state's finances warranted it he would have been glad to have approved a bill containing an appropriation two or three times as large as that carried by the bill signed by him. But manifestly such an appropriation would have been unwarranted at this time.

Not only the good women, but the good men of Georgia, are back of this measure and it may be confidently predicted that within the next two years this institution will be established on such a firm basis as to abundantly justify its creation and the comparatively small appropriation allowed though when the fact is taken into consideration that even this appropriation represents a tax valuation of $4,000,000 it will be seen, after all, that the taxpayers are not lightly represented in the contribution made by the state to this very worthy end.

MILADY'S TOOTSY-WOOTSIES.

The claim comes from Chicago to the effect that the women of that city boast of having the smallest feet in the country. The Washington women, says The Washington Herald, "are now laughing because the belles of Chicago evidently don't know what small feet are."

Washington dealers, who have customers from all sections of the country, state that the feet of southern women are smaller than those of northern and western women; the southerners have short, wide feet, and the northerners have long narrow feet. Nothing very definite is said as to the general dimensions of the western feminine foot. Washington probably does not mean to imply, by this omission, that the western foot is both long and wide.

The question, "Why is the southern foot smaller than the northern or western foot?" periodically bobs up for discussion, as in this instance.

If heredity has much to do with feet, the evolutionist might explain by the argument that in years gone by the northern and western women were more accustomed to do their own work, while colored servants saved "doing Mis'" many of the steps that make the feet larger.

After all, what's the difference? Small feet:—if not too small—are indeed attractive, but every man with good judgment will solemnly swear that he likes best the size of shoe worn by wife or sweetheart.

AS TO "SOUTHERN CHIVALRY."

The Kansas City Star, discussing "Where Humanity Begins," declares that one might suppose, from much that is said and done, that a large part of humanity is not considered as being human at all.

The Star, no doubt in ignorance of the real facts, has slandered a large number of human men while attempting to find an illustration to suit its theme.

"When, for example," says The Star, "some southern statesman talks of 'the chivalry of the South,' he is thinking of the attitude of the southern gentleman to the 'fair daughters of the South;' not at all of the southern gentleman's attitude toward charwomen and factory workers. His very expression, 'fair daughters' and the like, ignore the humanity of a great mass of women."

It is a safe venture that The Star performer never visited the south, or that if he did, he did not study conditions here.

Here in the south any gentleman is as deferential to a working woman as to any other woman. No matter how poorly she may be dressed, a woman will always find the southern man ready to give her a seat in a car, and with his hat off the minute she enters an elevator. And here any woman is a "fair daughter" whose life and character is above reproach—this whether she is working her own way or is the petted daughter of a millionaire.

The Cloud-Angels.

I.

Sweet pathways of the summer! But you glimpse, when summer's lost,
The cool, cloud-angels shaking down the spicy frost;

Echo takes your voice up, and thrills it back so clear
You think some sweet-heart-fairy of the wild is hovering near.

II.

The cool, cloud-angels—they romp in rosy crowds;
Laugh as they chase the lightning around the hilly clouds;
By winds that run to kiss them their golden tresses tossed;
They are the glad rain-dancers, the fairies of the frost!

II.

They sometimes picnic on the hills—these lowly hills of ours,
And leave their shining autographs upon the hearts of flowers;
But the lightning flashes messages—gray mist the landscape shrouds,
And merrily they vanish and hide their curls in clouds!

* * * * *

Last call for summer, but Trouble makes this note: "Can you swap the summer goods for last year's overcoat?" That's why, when summer's dying, there comes the fear and doubt that friendly coat I may not make, and in the broker's presence shake the rest- ful mothballs out. But life great joy is giv- ing to many a summer-man; You bet it's worth the living even in a coat of tan.

WESTERN INTERVIEW ON SOUTHERN CONDITIONS

Rev. E. A. Bassett-Jones, rector emeritus of the Church of the Advent, Nashville, Tenn., on a recent visit to a daughter in Evanston, Ill., was interviewed by The Index, of Evanston, concerning conditions and possibilities in the "new" south.

Mr. Bassett-Jones is an Englishman, who has lived many years in the United States, and is familiar with all sections of our country. "Father Bassett," as his friends call him, says:

"Since the civil war the south is working out its own salvation. The new south is made by southerners, comparatively few coming in from other portions of the United States and not many immigrants from abroad. Capital has been invested there so extensively that it has made a new country of it and at that they haven't really begun to develop the vast fields of coal, iron and timber wealth, there still being mountains of it to which no railroads have yet been run.

"The south has awakened with a new spirit. It was a good thing that slavery was abolished, but the prevalent northern idea concerning slavery is all wrong. Uncle Tom's cabin was ridiculous. Slave owners did not beat or treat their slaves, if for no other reason than that they were much too valuable property to be misused, but a man who did whip his slaves was looked upon with the same contempt that would be given a teamster here beating his horses.

"We have no active race problem there; in fact, we have more of it here, from what I can learn. The old slaves knew their masters thoroughly and loved them. They were kept in comfort, many of them educated and the descendants of that class conduct the negro banks in a way which has the approval of their white neighbors. We have the 'Jim Crow' cars where they are separated from the white people and we do not permit them to attend school with the white children. There are lazy, worthless, impudent blacks in the south, but they seem just as plentiful in the north. Fisk university in Nashville and their idea of educating the colored people, is in my opinion, commencing too near the top. The negroes are taught Hebrew and the 'isms.' I think Booker Washington has the right idea in teaching them farming and the trades and the girls to cook and to sew and to enable them to make their own way in life and become good citizens.

"Politics and the tariff cut some figure with us, but like other communities the country over, graft is being eliminated, and we are getting nearer to a representative government.

"Under the plantation system that was universal before the war almost all the old estates were heavily mortgaged. The planters were too proud to work. They got ready money by marketing cotton and tobacco, which was always as good as cash, and if they needed more money slapped on another mortgage. When the war devastated that country those who rented had to adapt themselves to entirely changed conditions and to go to work. They did so, developing the country until now our southern cities are full of active, energetic, up-to-date business men, making a living and gaining wealth from the development of the natural resources of the country. It is true that this has all been done with the aid of northern capital, but it has not been a work of philanthropy or a gift enterprise Idle money sought profitable investment and found it here. The new south is a new, wonderful reality and the southerners who are making it are great, big, warm-hearted, brainy men, the finest type of Americans."

South Pole Relics.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

There are now on view in London, at the Earls court exhibition, a number of relics of the South pole which were brought back to civilization by the Terra Nova—the antarctic exploring ship. Among the articles are a big plain cooking pot, whose interior has been scraped clean and bare by men at the point of death by starvation; an empty provision bag, a sledging shovel, the inner lining of the tent in which the bodies of Captain Scott and his companions were found by the search party and a shabby novel. The book is a much-thumbed "6-penny edition" of Mary Johnston's story of old Virginia, "By Order of the Company." Curiously enough, says The London Tit-Bits, the book, when picked up in Captain Scott's tent, was open at the chapter headed, "We Go Out Into the Night"—a sad reflection of the sacrifice of one of the men who "walked out into the night," sacrificing himself, a dying man, in order to give others a chance.

It is a pathetic and impressive collection, and not the least interesting feature is an exact model in section of the igloo, or cave, dug in the snow by the members of the northern party of the expedition, who were forced to winter in Terra Nova bay owing to the ship being unable to pick them up. For seven months the party lived in the cave of snow and ice, on rations sufficient for only one month. There were six men altogether, under Lieutenant Campbell, and they used blubber for everything—food, light and fuel. When found, their ice cave was as black as a coal mine with carbon, and so were the men. When Lieutenant Campbell visited the exhibition, he remarked to Lord Cheylesmor that he "shivered" when he looked upon the realistic reproduction of the igloo which brought back to his mind so vividly those terrible seven months.

Among other relics might be mentioned the theodolite which fixed the position of the South pole, the camera with which photographs of the pole were taken, sledging thermometer and compass, a queer kind of lamp made from an empty tin to burn a mixture of vaseline and spirits, a typewriter, several sleeping bags, skis of Captain Scott, Lieutenant Bowers and Dr. Wilson, and an instrument box which Captain Scott and his party used on the return journey from the pole. The tent of death is perhaps the most striking of the relics. It is the inner lining only, the outer covering having been used as a pall for the bodies—a tiny structure hardly, in all appearances, fit shelter against the antarctic blizzard.

High Cost of Motion Picture Films.

(From Answers, London.)

Every frequenter of the motion picture theaters must have been struck, at some time or another, by the luxuriousness of the stage setting of most of the society dramas—the magnificence of the decorations, the richness of the furnishing, and the costliness of the dresses worn by the performers.

Few, however, have any real conception of the huge cost of these things, or appreciate the pains taken by the big film producing companies to get the best of everything.

Take, for instance, the costumes of the principal actresses. The capitals of Europe are ransacked for the latest "creations" in millinery and modes. When Miss Miriam Nesbit and Miss Mary Fuller were last over here with the Edison company, they paid a visit to Paris for the purpose of purchasing a stock of such things for future Edison productions, and in two days' shopping they spent more than $15,000.

Miss Lottie Briscoe, the Lubin star actress, recently played in a film which necessitated no fewer than fourteen changes of costumes, each costing on an average about $75, and she needs, when on tour, twenty trunks for her wardrobe.

Miss Gene Gauntier wears one set of furs in the Kalem films that cost $4,000, and she has other sets almost equally as valuable. Miss Asta Nellson is credited with being the most expensively dressed actress in the pictures. Frequently her costumes in the society scenes in which she specializes will cost as much as $500 apiece.

It might be thought that as the actual dresses worn by the performers are not seen by the public, but only the photographic representations of them, that common material or imitation stuff would do as well as the real articles.

But, as a matter of fact, this is far from being the case. Indeed, the very reverse holds good. To get a really first-class photograph, first-class "properties" must be provided.

In the early days of the picture play business this was not properly realized, and a company that laid out $6,000 on a collection of properties, although expecting them to last for years, was considered extravagant.

Nowadays, on the other hand, it would be a very cheap affair that would start with less than $15,000 or $20,000 worth; while one of the best known of the really big film companies is reported to spend as much as $50,000 every year in dressing—or, as it is technically termed, "robing" its shows.

The World's Mysteries

WAS THERE A PLOT TO ASSASSINATE LINCOLN?

For more than fifty years countless stories have appeared of an attempt to assassinate President-elect Lincoln in Baltimore while he was en route from his home in Springfield, Ill., to Washington to become the head of the nation. These stories have been quite conflicting and perhaps were founded upon real evidence or perhaps were merely worked out of an imagination that such a thing might happen. That it was well to take the precaution that was taken in order that no risks were run in getting Lincoln to the Capital City there is no doubt, and that Baltimore, like many other border cities, and indeed cities in the north, contained an element that might have wished for his destruction is also true, but was there really a conspiracy that was of such a character that it would have been possible to succeed in Baltimore?

Many articles have been printed on this subject, and many chapters in history and biography have related graphically the plans that had been formulated by the conspirators, but even those of the most recent date or from the pen of persons who should be thoroughly conversant with how much of a conspiracy existed, if any at all, has left the subject to grave doubt because of the very vaguer details that they have been able to give.

In a recent long article, a prominent magazine published Allan Pinkerton's hitherto unpublished tale of what had been occurring in Baltimore from the time it became known that Lincoln was to pass through that city. Pinkerton hints at a great conspiracy. He accuses the Baltimore police as being entirely in the hands of the Secession element, whose leader was George P. Kane. He says the plan of the conspirators was skillfully laid, and that "one of the leading spirits in the plot was a barber, whose name I do not recall." From his statements you would be led to infer that a band of cutthroats controlled Baltimore.

All this was hardly proved by later events, even though a mob of ruffians did fire upon a body of Massachusetts troops as they passed through the Baltimore streets a short time thereafter. Mr. Pinkerton claimed to have mingled with the would-be assassins and added that no one's life was safe in their hands. If such conditions actually existed, why, when Lincoln had been smuggled through Baltimore and gotten safely to Washington, did not the detective force or the Secret Service Department return to Baltimore with the evidence they had and bring the conspirators to justice? Thousands of union officers and eminent statesmen in sympathy with the north passed through Baltimore during the rebellion and were never molested. What became of the big conspiracy that had been hatched, if it actually existed?

All these questions are asked by those who take a broad view of the supposed attempt that was to be made upon the life of L'ncoln. And why was such an attempt to be made in the station at Baltimore? As the president was passing through the station, the story goes, and was about to enter his carriage, the conspirators were to start a free-for-all fight, and in the midst of the excitement the assassin was to shoot Lincoln.

This would seem like a bungling plot and one that was not likely to be successfully carried into effect for the reason that in every city, in those excited times, the president was so carefully guarded that it was not likely that anyone could have got near enough to his carriage to fulfill the design, from the mere fact everyone was watching with the closest suspicion.

Lossing, the historian, states "It was alleged that statesmen, bankers, merchants and others were engaged in the conspiracy, and they were meeting secretly in a private room in Taylor's building, on Fayette street near Calvert." Who were these "statesmen, bankers, merchants?" No names were ever mentioned. If the detective force of the United States knew of such meetings and knew who the men were, why were they allowed to go on with their plans, unmolested?

There may have been threats, there may have been a plot in Baltimore. Lincoln might have met with foul play. But all these things are problematical, for there has never been any evidence produced to show that the threats were more than idle gossip, the plot of any great importance, surely not involving "statesmen, bankers, merchants, etc." nor any real connected conspiracy of any kind.

THE SECTION HAND.

BY GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Railroads can be operated without presidents or private cars or union stations, but they would have a hard time getting along without section hands.

A section hand is a tired man in blue overalls who manicures the railroad right of way. His duty is to give engineers heart disease by toiling diligently upon a track until the cowcatcher of the on-coming train brushes his jacket as he steps aside.

Nothing can exceed the diligence of the section hand when a train is approaching. A conscientious section hand will save up work all morning in order to have enough on hand to keep him busy in the middle of the track when the Cannon Ball Express is trying to get by.

Section hands works for $1.40 a day and travel to and from their job on private cars. The section hand's private car has four wheels and a double action hand motor. When the section hand takes off his coat and works hard he can travel 13 miles an hour on his fiery steed.

When times are hard and the owner of a railroad finds that he can't afford to keep his private yacht in commission he cuts the pay of the section hand to $1.10 a day and the latter says nothing, not having learned the English language as a rule. Section hands have saved hundreds of American railroads from bankruptcy by getting their pay cut to $1.10 a day.

Section hands are so called because they work with their hands and let the roadmaster do the worrying. The section hand wears a shovel all day and takes it to bed with him at night. When he lays aside his shovel it is a sign that he is ill and unless something is done for him soon he will fade away. No one has ever seen a section hand in a hurry. If the section hand should hurry he would be so much work that the president of the road would cut one man out of each crew and would get his salary raised for effecting the economy.

Some section hands become managers of railroads when they grow old, but most of them become grandfathers and let it go at that.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
The Famous Prose Poet

A PLEASURE TRIP.

"Mr. Pigeon keeps automobiles for hire," said Mrs. Jamesworthy, "and I think it would be so nice if you rented one for next Sunday afternoon and took us for a drive in the country. Mr. Pigeon says he has good careful chauffeurs and fine autos. I'm just as anxious to save money as you are, but I think we should have an outing once in a while."

"So do I, Mrs. Jamesworthy," replied her husband. "All work and no play made Jack a dull boy, as Solomon remarked. This thing of taking an outing has been on my mind for a long time, and only this morning I cabled Count Zeppelin asking him what he'd take for the use of one of his dirigible airships for the next three weeks. Until I have heard from the count I don't like to make any positive arrangements with this Mr. Pigeon, who has the reputation of being a robber in disguise.

"I know quite well how anxious you are to save money, and your frantic efforts in that direction would move any man to tears; and I agree with you that we should have an outing. Therefore, let us go and sit on the lawn and eat peanuts. That is amusing and inexpensive, and far more satisfactory in the long run than bumping over the roads in a hired automobile, with the knowledge that when you get back home you'll have to dig up every nickel you have laid away for winter use.

"I am astonished at your suggestion, Mrs. Jamesworthy. Here you stand, a woman of mature years, supposed to have your faculties on straight, and yet you calmly make a proposterous proposition that would cause ridicule in an institution for the feeble minded.

"There is some satisfaction in riding in an auto that you own. If I had as many kinds of money as I have banked I'd own the finest car in this neighborhood. Then we could go touring around over the countryside, the admiration of the sturdy peasantry. We could and would feel that we were cutting a wide swath in social as well as sporting circles, and we could cultivate an atmosphere of hauteur that would cause plebeians to take their hats off when addressing us. I like to be envied by other people as much as any man.

"But what satisfaction is there in riding in a hired car? In the first place, it's always out of whack, and after you travel three versts something breaks, and the chauffeur has to crawl underneath with a crowbar and a monkey wrench, and the ladies in the party have to walk a quarter of a mile up the road to avoid hearing his comments. And when the machinery is fixed, and the car is in motion, it makes more noise than three freight engines on a trestle, and farmers whose horses are scared begin using their shotguns, and there is unpleasantness all round.

"In the second place, Mrs. Jamesworthy, your careful drivers never are careful. These livery chauffeurs are the most reckless desperadoes on earth, and their joy takes a fiendish delight in running over hogs and dogs and cattle, knowing that the man who chartered the car will have to foot the bill. My friend Ezekiel Playfair had occasion to hire an auto some time ago, and by the time he got done paying for the five stock killed on that excursion he was a broken man, and he never smiled again.

"But the chief objection to your plan is the fact that everybody knows a livery auto as far off as it can be seen or heard. There's something about such a machine that gives it away everywhere. You can't fool the proletariat into thinking that you're riding in your own car. You may look as majestic as you please, but the innocent bystanders will size you up. If we went touring in a borrowed car everybody would say: There goes Jamesworthy and his infatuated family riding around in an old tin auto, and thinking they are making a great hit!' And when I appeared again in the clanging mart everybody would be joshing me until I resorted to violence.

"Put that foolish notion out of your head, Mrs. Jamesworthy, and if you must have an outing, take your umbrella and walk around the block."

CURRENCY REFORM HITS MORE ROCKS

Chairman Owen, Considered Sponsor for Administration Bill, Changes Front—Measure May Be Remodeled.

Washington, August 19.—Unexpected developments in regard to the currency reform legislation in the senate today promised serious complications for President Wilson's plans for the passage or a currency bill at this session of congress.

At a conference of democratic members of the senate currency committee Chairman Owen, who has been considered one of the original framers of the bill now before the democrats of the house, made it clear to his associates that he was opposed to several features of the bill, including the plan for twelve regional reserve banks, and that he would recommend important changes in the measure.

The result of the senate conference has been to leave the currency situation entirely open tonight, so far as the senate's probable action is concerned. Senator Owen did not suggest a definite plan to his colleagues, but said he was opposed to the regional reserve bank plan, to the proposal to compel all national banks to enter the new federal system and to other features of the bill as it was introduced by chairman Glass, of the house currency committee.

Material Changes Likely.

The attitude of other democrats on the senate committee, including Senators Hitchcock, O'Gorman and Reed, is such as to indicate that there will be material changes in the administration measure, if not a complete remodeling of it, before it comes to the senate for action.

Several members of the committee tonight inclined to the opinion that the senate ultimately might be asked to consider some measure of a temporary character, similar to the bill recently introduced by Senator Lee, democ., which would amend the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency law and so change its provision as to bring a form of special currency within the reach of all national banks.

Senator Owen tonight said he believed the currency bill would be put in the senate and that changes that might be made in the currency reform plan would meet definite action when currency legislation is taken up in congress. Other senators said it is law was passed it probably would be of a temporary character.

Those who participated in today's committee conference declared tonight that no definite action was voted for the remodeling of the three principles embodied in the bill but received much support in their several separators, however, and it seemed the sentiment of the senate that many would like to see enacted. Under the bill banks would be grouped in currency associations with minimum members of five banks and a minimum capital of $1,000,000 and could obtain currency on approved securities through the treasury.

Agricultural Currency Urged.

Democratic leaders, one or more have virtually agreed that the administration bill now pending in the senate shall be amended so as to specifically provide for the issue of currency on receipts to be based on warehouse receipts or other evidences of ownership of agricultural products as well as general commercial and industrial paper. Chairman Glass of the house currency committee insists that the bill as drawn by his committee sufficiently provides for such credit to the farmer, but speaker Clark, Majority Leader Underwood, Senator Hoke Smith, Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, and other leaders favor more specific and clearer language.

General debate on the bill will continue in the senate tomorrow. Today Speaker Clark, Representative Palmer, of Pennsylvania, and Representative Sims, of Tennessee, Morris, of Oklahoma, and Broussard, of Louisiana, attacked it.

Mr. Clark talked for the farmers. He said there should be a president who would appoint a federal reserve board having regard to districts and not to cities. He favored a bill to increase the circulation of the currency to meet expanding business and would prevent control by Wall street.

Representative Sims, democratic member of the house committee, today introduced as a substitute for the administration currency bill a measure to provide for the issuance by the United States treasury of bonds bearing 2 per cent interest, which would be taken by national banks in the proportion of 25 per cent of their capital and surplus. The bonds would be issued for a period of 50 years and would be redeemable at the option of the government after 20 years. The bonds would be issued to the banks at par and would be used as a basis for the issuance of currency to the banks at 90 per cent of their face value.

Mrs. A. E. Benton.

The funeral of Mrs. A. E. Benton, grandmother of Mary Pickens, who died in Atlanta Sunday night, was held at Sardis church, Marietta, Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment was in the Sardis church yard.

HALF BLOCK IN BUTLER DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Plant of The Butler Herald Burns Up and Telephone System Is Demoralized.

Butler, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Fire which broke out in a restaurant early this morning destroyed half a block of buildings in the center of the town, entailing a loss of about $11,000. The plant of The Butler Herald, owned by C. E. Benns, and the Allen building, owned by Charles Sklar, were the principal losers.

Forms which were already set up for the next issue of The Herald were destroyed, but other arrangements for printing the paper have been made, and it will come out after a short delay. This building will be replaced as quickly as possible.

The Butler Telephone Exchange office was burned up and the telephone system demoralized. C. W. Brazemore, the owner, suffered loss of about $1,000, with $250 insurance. Mr. Sklar's loss is about $5,000, with no insurance. Mr. Benns, who lost about $4,500, carried $1,800 insurance.

Residents of the town, roused from their slumbers, made a heroic battle against the fire, but could not succeed in checking the flames until they had destroyed the Herald building.

JAMES B. KING NABBED FOR STATUTORY OFFENSE

Rome, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—James B. King, a well-known real estate operator, has been brought back from Murray county by Deputy Sheriff Byars to answer a statutory offense, having been indicted by the last Floyd county grand jury. His wife is suing him for a divorce, alleging the statutory offense for which he was arrested.

King has been placed under a heavy bond to prevent him from leaving the jurisdiction of the Floyd county court before answering the wife's suit for divorce and alimony. He has been unable to raise bond and is at present in the Floyd county jail.

GOVERNMENT WILL SOON FINISH LOCK ON COOSA

Rome, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—The government lock, about eight miles from Rome on the Coosa river, will be finished about September 20, and boats will then be able to pass through the lock and dam. Work started in 1910, and $271,000 has been expended on its construction. J. A. Kelly, who has been in active charge of the work, will leave as soon as it is completed for Wilmington, Del., where he will have charge of other government work. It is stated that the lock and dam will raise the level of the river through the city limits of Rome between it and the city of Rome, and will make a beautiful inland lake eight miles long.

OFFERED TO BITE SNAKE, BUT REPTILE BIT HIM

Rome, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Will Thurmond, an operative in the Lindale cotton mills and amateur snake charmer, lies near death as a result of a bite received from a pilot snake. The reptile buried its fangs in his left hand while he was giving a private exhibition to some of his friends.

Thurmond often played the part of the "snake man," and would drill "eats them alive" when various street carnivals were operating in this section. Thurmond was holding the snake in his hands and offered to bite off its head for $2. Just then the snake bit him.

ANNIVERSARY CLUB WILL BANQUET ON SATURDAY

The initial banquet of the Anniversary club of the Southern States Land Fair will be served and Atlanta is the guest of honor Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

This gathering is composed of the industrial fair representatives of the country, who have rendered invaluable aid in the club by way of excellent work. The company during the year has increased the circulation of the fair.

Besides the local members, a number of prominent citizens of Atlanta will be present, and as Atlanta is the home office of the company the banquet will no doubt be a notable one.

Will Zimmer Entertains.

Will V. Zimmer will entertain at an old-fashioned Georgia barbecue this afternoon at Lovejoy's for Knoxville friends and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hassler, Mrs. Mabel Loye, of Detroit, Mich., and the Atlanta Hotel Men's association.

Mr. Zimmer has made special preparations for the occasion, and the affair will no doubt outrival many of the notable functions which have made Kirkwood famous.

FOR THE LAST WORD FROM GEN. HUERTA

didate, though the informal understanding here has been that he would not.

With the country up in arms against his regime, it is generally doubted here that Huerta could be elected. The suggestion that a Mexican commission composed of representatives of both factions might conduct the election after Senor Gamboa had been made provisional president had been advanced in Latin-American circles here.

Constitutionalist representatives here do not think anything definite will result from the present negotiations and are pleading for a removal of the American embargo on arms. Given permission to buy munitions of war, they promise an early termination of hostilities.

Discretionary power is vested in President Wilson to issue permits for the exportation of arms and with the constitutionalists in control of various ports of entry on the northern frontier of Mexico, it was held by some government officials that the president could permit shipments with out a repeal of the joint congressional resolution March 14, 1912. Should a repeal be necessary, sentiment exists in the senate and house in favor of it, though action will be deferred until the outcome of present negotiations.

Feeling Tense for a Time.

Feeling was tense throughout official Washington over developments in the Mexican capital, but the denial sent by Charge O'Shaughnessy stating that no ultimatum demanding recognition had been delivered relieved the tension materially. Senators exhibited keen interest in the situation and President Wilson gave inquirers what information he had.

Judgment generally was deferred until the Mexican text had been received in full. Additional parts of it were being received during the night. The work of translating it from Spanish into English and placing it in cipher, coupled with the slow cable-telegraph communication with Mexico City, made it probable that the full text would not be in hand here until late tomorrow, though the statement that the entire cable of 7,000 words has not been confirmed.

Publication of the American note has been postponed to await the outcome of the Mexican efforts to reach an understanding with Provisional President Huerta.

President and Secretary Bryan, while authorizing no announcements on the situation, were keeping in close touch with developments tonight.

Messages came from many sources during the day indorsing a policy of peace.

"We want peace, not war," wired Governor Mcdonnell, of Idaho. "Inform Carranza."

The Jingoes Headed Off.

A general disposition in the senate to demand some definite statement of the administration was headed off by Senators Lodge, Bacon and Stone, who had direct information from the white house.

Senator Penrose had prepared to speak again on his resolutions asking for reports on Mexican conditions and the official status of Provisional President Huerta, but Senator Lodge requested him to delay his talk, and after a conference between the two on Friday Senator Penrose took his seat without raising the Mexican question.

Later he asked that his resolutions be allowed to go over for two or three days without action.

The Poindexter resolution, asking what measures had been taken to protect Americans in Mexico, also went over without debate. Conference took place on the senate floor throughout the session, and a disposition on the republican side not to force a discussion of the situation but to await developments grew stronger.

Chairman Bacon, of the foreign relations committee, declined to believe that the United States would stand unassailable in the eyes of the world whatever course Huerta might pursue because of its consistent effort to bring about peace in Mexico.

Alarmist Talk Barred by House.

Alarmist talk in Mexican situation was reorganized in the house today when objections from both democratic and republican leaders prevented consideration of any measures on foreign subjects.

Republican Leader Mann cautioned members to "sit quiet and keep cool."

Representative Clark, of Florida, democrat, asked permission to address the house for 20 minutes next Friday on the Monroe doctrine. Instantly Representative Foster, of Illinois, democrat, was on his feet protesting the present strained situation in Mexico is no time for the introduction of a speech on the Monroe doctrine. The objection was sustained.

EMISSARY OF REBELS ON HIS WAY TO WILSON

San Diego, Cal., August 19.—Bearing thirty men, women and children from Guaymas, Mex., the cruiser Cleveland, with Rear Admiral William H. Hassler, Mrs. Mabel Loye, of Detroit, Mich., and the Atlanta Hotel Men's association.

Among the passengers is George L. Page, from Sinaloa, who says he is on his way to Washington to seek an interview with President Wilson. He said he was acting as the emissary of the rebel leaders in Sinaloa and Sonora and that they sincerely desired to effect peace in Mexico if possible.

Page declared Filipe Rivers, governor of Sinaloa, was undisputed ruler of the state and capable of preserving order. He said the constitutionalists today held virtually all northern Mexico and should be recognized. Money issued by the rebel government of Sinaloa, he asserted, was accepted at all the banks.

HUSBAND KILLS DOCTOR HE FOUND WITH WIFE

Birmingham, Ala., August 19.—Returning home unexpectedly at 10:40 o'clock last night from his work, Cit T. Weaver, a young electrician at Nilsa, a mining camp of the Woodward Iron company, in the western part of the county, found Dr. Frederick Walton, company physician, at his home.

Pulling his revolver, Weaver shot Dr. Walton three times, a fourth shot going wild as Mrs. Weaver grabbed hold of the weapon. Dr. Walton died two hours later. Weaver surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Franklin, and is in the county jail here. The unwritten law will be the plea.

Felix Diaz in Montreal.

Montreal, August 18.—General Felix Diaz, of Mexico, arrived in Montreal tonight on his way to Europe. He will sail tomorrow from Montreal, leaving in the evening for Quebec to board the Empress of Ireland, which will carry him to Liverpool. General Diaz is optimistic as to the future of his country and inclined to the belief that the present impasse with the United States should not be taken too seriously. General Diaz stated that he would be a candidate for the presidency at the elections in October.

ROBBERS LOOT TRAIN AND SHOOT 2 PERSONS

Hold-Up Occurred In Suburbs of Portland—Robbers Escaped With Booty.

Portland, Ore., August 19.—The Soo-Spokane train east bound for Minneapolis and St. Paul was held up within the Portland City limits late tonight. Two persons were shot. The robbers escaped with valuables.

DUFFEY SWEARS HIS INJURY DID NOT CAUSE BLOOD SPOTS

Jessie E. Duffey, the workman who was the victim of the accident in the metal room last October, which has been a subject of much recent testimony in the Frank trial, was put on the stand by the prosecution following the character witnesses who testified for Dalton.

He was questioned by the solicitor-general as follows:

"Were you at work in the pencil factory in 1912?"

"I worked throughout October, 1912."

"Do you remember Charley Lee, the mechanic?"

"Yes."

"Were you ever hurt there?"

"Yes, one time I cut my finger in the metal department on the office floor."

"What did you do when you received the injury?"

"Got a batch of cotton waste and put it around my finger."

"Did you stand beside the ladies' dressing room with blood spurting from your finger?"

"No."

"How much blood got within a radius of 15 feet of the dressing room?"

"None."

Rosser on cross-examination:

"Your finger bled freely?"

"Pretty freely."

"Did you look to see if any got on the floor?"

"No, not exactly—the waste kept it from getting to the floor."

"Come down."

DEPUTIES GUARDING ROCKEFELLER ESTATE

Tarrytown, N. Y., August 19.—Deputy sheriffs and private guards were stationed about the Pocantico estate of John D. Rockefeller tonight with instructions to keep a look out for strangers. This followed the movements of several new employees. The reason for the precaution was the discovery this afternoon of a quantity of inflammable material near the Japanese tea house. Several weeks ago incendiary fires caused much damage to buildings on the estate.

STREET CAR HITS AUTO.

Dr. W. M. Dunn Has Narrow Escape From Death.

Dr. W. M. Dunn narrowly missed death last night at 9 o'clock when an outgoing Peachtree car struck his automobile in front of the Peachtree Inn.

As the story was told by eye-witnesses, Dr. Dunn was driving his machine at a reasonable rate of speed, and in attempting to pass the car, swerved to the left, as several machines were parked on the right side of the street. In crowding to the right again in front of the car, the latter struck a hind wheel of the auto, knocked it around, and carried it at least 20 feet before the street car could be stopped. When stopped the automobile was still on its wheels.

A number of people were seated on the veranda of the Peachtree Inn, and when the accident occurred quite a commotion was caused among the feminine contingent.

Dr. Dunn was not injured, it is said, but his car was battered up considerably.

POSTOFFICE BUILDINGS FOR GEORGIA TOWNS

Washington, August 19.—Representative Adamson today introduced bills to appropriate $60,000 each for postoffice buildings at Greenville, Buena Vista and Talbotton, Ga. Representative Howard introduced a bill to appropriate $100,000 for a government building at Decatur, Ga.

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS PRESSING GOV. O'NEAL

He Is Urged to Call Legislature to Settle the Senatorial Squabble.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, August 19.—(Special.) Senator Bankhead, after conferring with the other members of the senate, has concurred in the demand on the governor of Alabama to call the legislature together and not endanger the tariff bill by the absence of one Alabama senator.

Considerable resentment exists here that Governor O'Neal has not yielded to the telegram of the party leaders. Delays in filling the vacancy caused by Senator Johnston's death are apt to be fraught with danger. Hence it is believed the legislature would authorize the governor to make an appointment.

As democratic majority in the senate is only one owing to the defection of the Louisiana senators and as a senator is very ill and likely not to be present, it seems to me that the situation imperatively demands some action to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnston.

"It appears to me, after a thorough investigation of the subject, that the only thing the governor can do to meet the situation and fill the vacancy in time to meet the demands here and guarantee the passage of the tariff bill is to call the legislature together.

"The legislature is organized and could in one day pass a resolution authorizing the governor to make a temporary appointment."

NEW DECATUR SWEPT BY A VIOLENT WIND

New Decatur, Ala., August 16.—(Special.)—Considerable damage of a minor character was done here early tonight by high wind and rain.

The storm struck the city about 8 o'clock and raged violently for nearly half an hour. Several buildings were unroofed and electric light and telephone poles suffered. The light company was put out of commission and the city is in darkness tonight.

Old Decatur, across the Tennessee river from here also suffered minor damage.

No reports of personal injuries have been made.

McCoy's Three Profiles.

Piedmont, Ala., August 19.—(Special.)—The McCoys, of Piedmont, defeated the Profiles of Jacksonville, here Saturday 3 to 0. Young, the McCoys' twirler, did not allow a hit or a run. The McCoys have played fifteen games, winning twelve and losing three. They are open to meet any amateur team in Georgia and Alabama on any Saturday.

WEST GEORGIA CROPS IN FINE CONDITION

Columbus, Ga., August 19.—(Special.) West Georgia crops are in flourishing condition as a whole, and a fine yield is expected. Weather conditions have been ideal for the past thirty days and cotton has grown at a rate rarely seen in this section. Some few scattered communities have been a little short on rain, but nowhere is a serious deficiency in moisture reported, and in the average west Georgia county the rains have fallen just about as they would had the farmers been in charge of the cloud operations.

South of Columbus, much of the cotton crop is already made, and the late crop is growing rapidly. The yield of corn is good, although not so large on the uplands as would have been the case rains come earlier.

All Georgia Housekeepers Should Visit Dairy Train

By Isma Dooly

"Very sorry, Madame, the butter has not come on this afternoon's train," said the waiter at the hotel situated in the center of Georgia's richest lands.

"No, ma'am, these folks 'round here don't raise butter.

"Yes, ma'am, they has cows.

"Yes, ma'am, they milks 'em.

"No, ma'am, I don't know what they does with the cream, and I don't know what they does with the butter. This here's a cotton raisin' country 'round here anyway—they don't raise much else. Folks is rich 'round here and can send to the city if they wants to, to get they're butter.

"They likes the store butter—them what's rich and can buy it."

Did You Ever Hear It Before?

This very conversation can be heard winter or summer in the average small hotel in Georgia. It is especially peculiar to the summer resort hotel; to the small town hotel that takes summer boarders. There is no use blaming the hotel keeper. He can't farm and keep a hotel and keep from killing the women in the hotel who complain all at the same time. Any one of these occupations would try the strongest, most patient masculine spirit.

What an absurd situation it is that anywhere in Georgia people should have to send to Tennessee or any other state for the butter they consume. Climatically, the state is wonderfully adapted to every phase of agricultural life. The soil yields every product upon which healthy cattle subsists, and the farm, of any size, which does not show its care of the dairy department is laggard, and can not be recorded as anything but yet half primitive.

An Expert Talks.

"The people of Georgia send away to other states millions of dollars annually for butter," was the statement made to me yesterday by one of Georgia's most prominent men agitating a movement for the pushing of dairy products as a state investment.

"We are paying tribute to butter producers whose grass is growing on lands worth $100 an acre. Our Georgia money has helped to establish the famous Elgin butter trust of Illinois. With the butter question agitated, and the people of Georgia aroused to a study of scientific methods, the care of cows and the preparation of butter and cheese, hundreds of thousands of dollars would be saved every year.

How Women Can Help.

"It is impossible to compete without a knowledge of modern methods," he continued. "Grass and cattle can be grown in Georgia for less than in the northwest. What we lack is in knowing how, and I believe this is one of the movements in which the women of Georgia can be helpful.

"The dairy is the department of the farm nearest the home; it is the department upon which the state's best asset—the babies—is dependent. Therefore I believe that the women of the state should become the most enthusiastic factors in pushing the movement for better dairying."

The Human Interest Side.

There is so much in the human interest about the cow and its products that nobody who once gets an insight into scientific dairying, can fail to become interested, fail to push the industry in their own home where the influence is possible. There is no doubt about it that there is many a housewife in town as well as in the rural district who, if they only knew how to manipulate the dairy products, would become interested in it, and finally assume that part of the business of the home on the farm.

Until common school and secondary education become so rationalized that the girl will be taught the things about the home and its making that she should know, outside agencies will have to help out in the matter, and I know of none making more surely in this practical direction than the dairy instruction car of the Southern railway. It comes as the voice in the wilderness to herald a movement which should be made widespread, and I would say that for the time being I would like to see two-thirds of the typewriters now used in so-called business colleges where girls go, turned into churns, and these girls being taught the art of butter making.

The girls canning clubs of Georgia have saved many a girl from the street of the village, the town and the city, as well as developing a lucrative industry, and girls dairy clubs could hold to the farm many good wives and conserve there the material heretofore largely wasted.

Beyond the Commercial Value.

But beyond the commercial value which there would be in the dairy part of farming being broadened and developed, there is the phase of the question which may be defined as the conservation or life saving part. Thousands of lives are lost through the ignorance of people in the preparation and care of dairy products, and scientific research has made it clear that it is necessary for the dairyman and consumer alike to know certain facts about milk products.

This was made most clear at a meeting held in Atlanta within the year when, with members of the Georgia Dairyman's associations thereof met, a thoughtful group of women representing the Federated Women's organizations. It is common method when milk is questioned in its purity for the consumer to take the specimen from the vessel in which he or she keeps it to the research laboratory. Here it is found to be impure. The dairyman who sold it is summoned and brings the specimen of the milk from his depot, which is the same that is questioned. It proves to be pure. His equipment is examined, and up to the time the milk is delivered at the consumer's door it is found to be pure.

Then there arises the question. Has the consumer taken the proper precaution in the cleanliness of vessels, refrigeration, etc., for the protection of the milk? That side of the matter is investigated, and in many cases it is found that the utmost ignorance prevails in this connection.

These facts were presented and proven at the meeting referred to, when the women of the Federation agreed that a public educational campaign should be started which would make for the intelligent construction of the consumer, as well as the producer of dairy products.

The Instruction Car Meets Demand.

It is the purpose of the dairy instruction car of the Southern railway to meet these demands and the instruction car in Atlanta Thursday and Friday will have lectures and exhibits which will prove instructive and inspirational both to dairymen and housewives.

This special car is fitted up with the machinery and apparatus necessary to the small farm dairy. On the car will be dairy agents of the Southern railway, state veterinarian, Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, and dairymen from the Georgia College of Agriculture. These men will give illustrated lectures on subjects of interest to every man who owns a cow; they will discuss southern dairy problems; they will give expert advice on how to keep cows and handle milk; they will tell you how to make more money from cows.

Milk will be tested free for the per cent of butter fat. Milk samples brought to this car will be tested free of charge, and advice and instructions given, based on the results of the test.

Daily demonstrations will be made in the handling of milk and butter.

Any agency which makes so directly for better health, better homes, better farms and better hotel life in Georgia, should be appreciated, encouraged and helped on.

Midsummer Cotillion.

The third annual midsummer cotillion at Highland Lake on the evening of August 14 was the most brilliant social event of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Seibels, of Columbia, led the ball and Mrs. Seibels was beautiful in a lace brocade corsage trimmed with chiffon and fillet lace. She wore a corsage bouquet of fuscias, ferns and hydrangeas.

Mrs. Martin Sloan, of Montgomery, with Mr. St. Julian Grinke, of Charleston, assisted in leading. Mrs. Sullivan, a lovely blonde, was gowned in white charmeuse.

Nearly a hundred couples were led by the favors table, where the ladies each received corsage bouquets of hydrangeas, ferns and goldenglow. Other favors during the evening were Japanese fans and Japanese sparklers.

The Japanese scheme of decorations was carried out in the spacious ball room, where lanterns, umbrellas and garlands made the scene one of brilliant coloring. The stage was banked in white leaf pines and huge fern baskets filled with goldenrod.

Mrs. William Kelly and Mrs. Ernest Ladd, of Mobile, and Mrs. Robert Oates, of Flat Rock, with Mrs. F. M. Howden, of Savannah, were the gracious hostesses at the punch table.

Mrs. Kelly wore white shadow lace over white charmeuse. Mrs. Ladd wore white charmeuse with an overdress of lace. Mrs. Oates wore black lace over red silk. Mrs. Howden wore black lace charmeuse.

Mrs. Charles La Baron Taylor, of Mobile, and Miss Jean Lahey, of Montgomery, were at the favor table. Mrs. Taylor wore black embroidered chiffon over yellow charmeuse. Miss Lahey's costume was of yellow chiffon and shadow lace.

Among the Atlanta guests at the ball were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Parks, Miss Pearl Parks, Miss Alice Parks, Miss Gertrude Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. James Hickey and Mrs. Sanders Hickey.

Baron-Warshaw.

Mrs. H. Baron announces the engagement of her daughter, Mollie, to Mr. Maurice Warshaw, of Thomasville, Ga. The date for the wedding will be announced later.

Mr. Zimmer to Entertain.

Mr. Will V. Zimmer will entertain in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hawsley, Mrs. Mabel Pratt, of Detroit, Mich., and Atlanta Hotel Men's association at an old-fashioned Georgia barbecue at Kirkbalville this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Brenau College
Gainesville, Ga.

Brenau is THE WOMAN'S COLLEGE of the South. Its reputation is not confined to one section, but is known throughout the east, west, north and abroad. The enrollment of its students, representing 28 states and 6 foreign countries, shows this to be true.

There are several reasons why Brenau leads.

It is one of the best equipped colleges for women in the South. Its 32 buildings meet every requirement from a material standpoint, and it has 45 competent teachers on its faculty.

The courses of study which entitle Brenau to "A-1" rank have been recently revised, raising the standards to accord with those of foremost American universities and colleges.

Brenau's Conservatory of Music is recognized as a leader among musical institutions, and its art courses are of the highest grade.

The Brenau School of Oratory, which is affiliated with the Emerson School at Boston, Mass., completes the remarkable trio of departments which form the College.

Special care is given to the health and physical development of the girls, and wholesome amusements are provided. Though there is scarcely ever an illness in the College, an able physician and trained nurse are in charge of the Brenau Infirmary.

The Fall Term will open September 11th. Brenau's new catalog, beautifully illustrated, will be sent on request.

Get off at Tenth street.

Girtman-Jeffers.

A wedding of interest to their friends was that of Miss Mae Girtman and Mr. J. A. Jeffers, which occurred on the afternoon of the 14th. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends at the residence of Mrs. Kate H. Orme, 17 East Eleventh street, Dr. Landrum officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffers will make their home at 25 Bonaventure avenue.

Lawn Fete.

A lawn party, afternoon and evening, will be given today by the ladies of the Church of St. Anthony, in West End, at the corner of Lucile avenue and Peeples street (Walker street or Lucile avenue cars).

There will be athletic sports, pinning on the donkey's tail and other amusements with prizes and refreshments for the children in the afternoon, and at night music will be a feature of informal entertainment. A cake sale will also be held.

Bell-Swenson.

Of interest to Atlanta friends is the following notice from a Birmingham exchange:

"Simple in all its appointments was the marriage of Miss Gertrude Bell and Mr. Joseph Jordan Swenson, which took place Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Only a few friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. J. S. Foster. Before the entrance of the bridal party Miss Flora Jones sang, accompanied by Miss Madeline Smith, who also played the wedding march. Miss Bell's only attendant was Miss Josephine Aldrich, of Ralph Lodge, and Mr. Swenson was attended by Mr. Henry J. Noble, of Anniston, as best man. The bride was attired for traveling in a smart tailored suit of blue with hat to match and carried bride roses showered with lilies of the valley. Miss Aldrich also wore a blue suit and carried white roses and lilies.

"After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Swenson left to spend several weeks at Wrightsville Beach, after which they will be at home on Woodland avenue, North Haven.

"Mrs. Swenson is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Bell and a niece of Dr. T. L. Robertson, one of the pioneers of the Birmingham district. Mr. Swenson comes from a prominent Georgia family.

"The out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jordan, of Rajah Lodge; Miss Helen Robertson, of Atlanta; Miss Mary Robertson, of El Paso, Texas; Mrs. Swenson, mother of the groom, from Atlanta; and the Misses Easley, of Anniston.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty Seekers

K. C. F. says: "My skin becomes so greasy every summer, and this so attracts dust and dirt that I have an awful time keeping my face clean looking. Can you suggest anything?"

The method mentioned in reply to Eloise will overcome this condition.

D. N. A. writes: "How can I get rid of crowfeet and wrinkles about the mouth corners?" Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This tightens the skin, tending to disperse wrinkles, and its tonic effect is more than temporary.

Eloise says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any remedy?" Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually and harmlessly absorbs the affected cuticle, not only will the freckles vanish, but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy color. Probably you will need to continue treatment a week or more.—Woman's Realm.—(adv.)

Special services have been arranged for men, women and children. Mr. Bass will preach at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. today.

DAIRY INSTRUCTION CAR IN ATLANTA TWO DAYS

Southern Railway to Conduct Meetings Thursday and Friday for Dairymen and Consumers.

Dairymen and farmers who supply Atlanta people with milk and butter and Atlanta people who get their milk and butter from local dairies will alike have the opportunity of gaining much valuable information on handling cows and the making of sanitary dairy products by the visit to Atlanta Thursday and Friday of the Southern railway's special "dairy instruction car."

The car, which is on an extensive tour of the southeast over the lines of the Southern railway, is fitted out like a model farm dairy with up-to-date machinery and apparatus necessary to the small farm dairy, and will be in charge of Dr. C. M. Mersman, head of the dairy division of the Southern railway, assisted by Dr. Peter Bahnson, state veterinarian, and dairy experts from the Georgia College of Agriculture and the state and United States departments of agriculture. Thursday there will be special meetings from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 2 to 4:30 p. m. for dairymen and farmers, and on Friday the same hours will be devoted to special meetings for consumers of milk. The car will be parked on the Southern railway tracks at the Terminal station, and may be reached from the end of the Mitchell street viaduct at Elliott street.

COLLEGE MEN TO MAKE EQUAL SUFFRAGE TALKS

College day will be observed this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when an open meeting of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage Association will be held in Carnegie hall. Mrs. Amelia Woodall, president of the association, has returned to the city, and will preside.

One of the features of the occasion will be the presentation of the charter to the body, which was secured by the efforts of Attorney Leonard Grossman.

A number of college men will be present and advance reasons for the enfranchisement of women. Among those will be: George Baker Mayer, of Cleveland, Ohio, a student in the architectural college of the University of Pennsylvania; Charles McDaniels, son of the Rev. Chas. McDaniels, student at the University of Georgia, and Victor Victor, a member of the senior class of the University of Georgia law school.

The public is cordially invited. Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, will welcome the college students to the meeting.

AQUATIC EVENTS AT LAKEWOOD TODAY

There will be a big aquatic meet at Lakewood this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. Atlanta's fastest and strongest swimmers will take part. The meet will be held under the supervision of the United States Life-Saving corps.

The events carded are: One-mile relay race, 440-yard race, 100-yard race, 50-yard race and 25-yard race for girls. Beautiful silver cups will be the prizes offered in all events except the girls' race. The winner of that event will be given a cut-glass powder jar.

The 1-mile relay race will probably be the big feature. Foye Benton and C. R. McDermott, of Piedmont lake, will battle Captain B. H. Schlomberg and Clements Tutt Walthour, of Lakewood. This struggle should be a hard-fought one from start to finish.

There will also be a life saving demonstration, given by Captain Schlomberg.

"KID YOUNG" APPEARS IN PEACEMAKER ROLE

Charged with assault and battery and assault with intent to murder for drawing a blackjack on a newsboy, W. K. Dunn appeared before Recorder Pro Tem. Preston Tuesday, and was held under a $500 bond.

The trouble started when Dunn got into a fight with Isadore Kulbersh, 12 years old, and Bill Krell, another young newsie, who went to the aid of his co-worker. "Kid Young," who has appeared before local fight fans, attempted the role of peacemaker after Dunn drew his blackjack, and all four were served with copies of charges. The cases against Krell, Kulbersh and Young were dismissed.

SHORT WEIGHT ICE MEN ARE GIVEN STIFF FINES

The war of the police department on ice dealers who give short weight in their deliveries continues unabated, one or more offenders appearing for trial before the recorder every day. The city is making a determined effort to rid Atlanta ice consumers of this class of offenders, and each dealer found guilty is given a stiff fine, with the promise of a larger one should he appear for the second time. Nat Lumpkin, a young white man employed by the Southern Ice company, was fined $12.75 Tuesday on evidence showing that he practiced short weight giving to the extent of 20 per cent on his deliveries.

STATE CHEMIST BEGIN MILK INVESTIGATION

Dr. R. E. Stallings, state chemist, announced yesterday that he had inaugurated a state-wide investigation of the milk supply. He has taken up first the dairies of Atlanta and the nearby towns which supply this city with the greater part of its milk.

Every dairy which is found to fall below the rules as to sanitation and whose milk is under the standard will be compelled to clean up or shut up.

The investigation is under the immediate direction of K. W. Atkins, a new member of Dr. Stallings' staff. Mr. Atkins says that ordinarily the bacterial count in milk should not run above 100,000 to a third of a teaspoonful of milk, while, in some of the specimens he has examined, it has run as high as 22,000,000.

Firm Admits Bankruptcy.

Involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy have been filed with the clerk of the federal court in Atlanta against the Rock Springs Coal company, a corporation doing business in Atlanta. The creditors are Merideth Collier, of Atlanta, $5,000; J. N. Eley, Atlanta, $845.52, and R. E. Miller, of New York, $585.49. The Rock Springs Coal company admits in writing its inability to pay its debts and consents to an order adjudging it a bankrupt.

SLATON WILL ATTEND GOVERNORS' ASSEMBLY

Session Next Week at Colorado Springs Will Be Attended by 45 Governors.

Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, accompanied by Colonel Frederick J. Paxon, chief of staff, and Mrs. Paxon, will leave for Colorado Springs Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, arriving there on Monday. The governor goes to attend the annual meeting of the conference of governors, which it now seems will be the most important gathering of this noted body that has ever assembled.

Forty-six out of the 48 governors of the states of the union have definitely announced that they will be present, only two of the entire number being prevented by providence or otherwise from attending. The conference meets on Tuesday, August 26, and will be in session for four days at the Antlers hotel, Colorado Springs.

The assembly will be welcomed by Governor Ammons and by Mayor McKesson, of Colorado Springs. In response Governor Spry, of Utah, will deliver an address. Permanent organization will then be effected and that evening a street reception and ball will be tendered the governors and their wives by Mrs. Ammons, the wife of Colorado's governor.

On Wednesday Governors Cruce, of Oklahoma, and Lister, of Washington, will deliver addresses on "A State Department of Efficiency and Economy," and the governors generally will discuss the topic. At the close of Wednesday's session the members of the conference will be the guests of Colorado state societies, and that evening an executive session will be held. On Thursday morning and afternoon addresses will be made by Governor O'Neal, of Alabama; Hunt, of Arizona, and Hodges, of Kansas, on "Distrust of State Legislatures; the Cause; the Remedy." This will be followed by general discussion by the governors. On Friday Governor Dunne, of Illinois, will make a talk on "The Growth of Administrative Commissions," following by a general discussion at the close of which the visiting governors will be shown points of interest around Colorado Springs. On Saturday Governors Baldwin, of Connecticut, and Carey, of Wyoming, will lead in a general discussion of "State Assumption of Nomination and Election Expenses."

This will be the first time in all the Gatherings of the Governors that as many as 46 will attend.

QUAINT OLD PAINTING STOLEN FROM LIBRARY

Mystery surrounds the theft of a quaint old painting of Patrick Henry, which disappeared from the wall of the Carnegie library two weeks ago. The portrait was handed on to the library from the Young Men's library years ago and was placed on the second floor of the building. It hung in a small oval frame within reaching distance of the floor and some one evidently placed it under his or her coat and calmly walked out with it.

Negro Fatally Shot.

As a result of a shooting scrape on Columbia street near Harris Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock Dave Wright, a young negro man living near Grant Park is lying desperately wounded in Grady hospital and Abe Smith, another negro lad, is locked in the police station charged with assault and attempt to murder. According to Smith's story as told the police when he was taken to headquarters, the trouble originated over a game of craps in which both negroes were participants. Smith claims self-defense.

Saving Tift Money.

Tifton, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Tift county's board of commissioners is saving the county a neat sum of money every year by the crops of feed stuffs raised on the county farm. All the vegetables used to feed the convicts are supplied by this farm, and the commissioners estimate that about $300 worth was raised this year.

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company

Today is "Bill Smith Day" at Ponce. Come on out and root for the man that put Atlanta on the baseball ways.

"BILL SMITH DAY" AT PONCE DE LEON

WHIFFS

Today's the Day.

THE FANS of Atlanta will have an opportunity today to show how much they appreciate the efforts of Billy Smith in giving Atlanta a winning ball club. Today has been set aside as "Bill Smith day" at the ball park. There will be a ball game, band and other features. Incidentally the Birmingham baseball club, the Crackers, another ball game.

The Attendance.

IT BEHOOVES Atlanta fandom to hurry and help Atlanta keep the title of the best ball town in the Southern league. Attendance is leading Atlanta in that respect, but the attendance thus far this year is not significant, however, as the season is still young enough for Atlanta to get ahead of them.

Hard Row.

WITHOUT trying to throw any cold water on the enthusiasm, Whiffs desires to put the supporters of the Dixie Baseball league in mind of the fact that they are up against a tough proposition in bucking the pennant fight. It has taken a year of patient study and careful management to get the Southern league into the condition that it now is, and to give Southern league fans the high class of ball they are now enjoying.

The Drawbacks.

THE DIXIE league will have to furnish Southern league baseball fans just as good baseball on grounds just as good, with stands just as good, and players just as good, for the new league to be assured of success. The slightest deviation from the high class of ball now being presented under the high-class conditions existing, will make it pretty hard for the new league. All these things must be taken into consideration first.

If There's War.

IF THE NEW league starts a war with the Southern, they are likely to scare a number of the heap. It behooves them first and foremost to get an experienced man in the Southern league. If they start a fight, they are likely to be worsted, as the Southern league is probably backed by a greater amount of working capital than the new league can command.

A Fine Performance.

ONE OF if not the greatest games of baseball ever staged in Atlanta was pulled off at Hoskins park last Saturday between the Asogas and Grant Park. The former won 4 to 3 at the end of fourteen innings of play. The work of Frank Parker, the Grant Park pitcher, is deserving of commendation. Of the 17 runs scored in that game, he fanned 24. Errors by his teammates lost the game.

Has Gone Up.

BEN KOHLER, former center fielder of the Crackers, and for the past few seasons playing in the Central league with Greenville, has come up. Ben has been the scourge of the Central league pitchers this season. He has been playing second base and holding down the keystone in great style. He has batted .300 or over. He is now playing second base for the Jersey City Skeeters in the International league and should be backed by a greater as a teammate in the near future. Joe Agler going to the Skeeters at the end of the Southern league season.

Leading League.

REMEMBER Butterfield block that used to stand in the middle of Pryor, Hunter and Chattanooga. Well, he is playing first base for the Victoria club of the Texas league, and is the leading leading the league with the stick with the grand average of .356, compiled from 115 hits in 256 times at bat.

Hitting Well.

FORMER Southern leaguers Donne, Klawitter and Hudson, of the Nashville Vols, Bentley, of the Crackers, and Johnson, of the Browns, are the leading players in the Pacific Coast league. Hudson, while not batting better than .300, while the other four are all in the .300 class.

An Anniversary.

YESTERDAY was the two-hundredth anniversary of one of the greatest baseball events in Atlanta. August 19, 1908, Atlanta defeated Savannah by the score of 7 to 0. Cannon Ball Smith pitched for Atlanta and did not allow a single hit. He fanned eight people while doing the trick. O'Day, the famous umpire, twirled for Savannah and allowed but five hits. But those were sufficient for Atlanta to win on.

Near as He Gets.

PAT WRIGHT, the veteran umpire, in announcing the release of Umpire Ephlin the other day, announced them, "Brown and Gridiron, for Montgomery; Kerlin and Gridiron, for Nashville." The Memphis fans, of course, gave him the horse laugh at his absurd as near as he comes to being right.

A FAN'S SUGGESTION

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor Constitution: Under the "Whiffs" column you announced that Wednesday would Bill Smith day, and wanted all the fans to be out and do some hard pulling for the Crackers. I suggest that you see that every fan in stand and bleachers have a small megaphone, as there are plenty of good rooters that can't be heard. This would be a good idea, even if you had to charge a small sum of 5 cents.

Bill Foxen Given Drubbing; Dent Tightens Near Close; Wallop Poles Long Homer

By Dick Jemison.

To the delight of a large ladies' day crowd, Bill Foxen was given a good drubbing at Ponce de Leon Tuesday afternoon, the Crackers scoring their sixth straight win over the Barons. The count was 7 to 5.

Foxen was stingy with his bingles for four innings. In the fifth, sixth and seventh, the Crackers got to him sufficiently to win.

Elliott Dent was wild at the start of the game, but after the fifth inning he had the Barons in the hollow of his hand. The big fellow had so much stuff Tuesday he had trouble controlling it. He fanned seven of the Barons.

The hitting of Kniseley and Agler and a home run smash to deep center by Captain Wallop Smith, were the features of an otherwise slow game, featureless from a fielding standpoint.

How Runs Counted.

The Barons were the first to count. They sent three runs over before the Crackers got a one.

Marcan beat out a hit to Dent and when the latter threw wild to first he went to second. Messenger bunted and Dent nailed Marcan at third. Messenger stole. McDonald walked and Kniseley drove in the first run of the game with a triple.

Bisland's error of Myer's line drive, which he set for and then let ease through his mitt, bases on balls to McGilvray and Ellam and Foxen's sacrifice fly, sent in the second run in the fourth.

Bisland's bad throw to first on McDonald's tap, which let the third baseman go to second and Kniseley's single, sent in the third and last run in the fifth.

The scoring run came in the sixth Bisland singled to left. Holland smashed a fierce one over McDonald's head and when McBride let the ball through to the fence both runners counted.

The Winning Runs.

The winning runs came across in the seventh. Agler hit one to Ellam, which the shortstop fell down on trying to handle. Joe getting credit for a hit. Long walked. Welchonce sent Agler home with a clean poke to left center.

With the outfielders having a ball game all by themselves in deep field, Wallop Smith got hold of a fast one and poled it over their heads, outlegging the relay to the plate and sending Long and Welchonce in ahead of him.

Lookouts 4, Volunteers 3; Lookouts 2, Volunteers 2

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 19.—Nashville and Chattanooga played two ball games today, to-day, the home team winning the first, 4 to 3, and by the second. Williams, pitched great ball for the locals in the first game, fanning ten, including five in succession. In the sixth he passed Strunk. Mandaville went in to bat for Grames and doubled. Coyle was sent in for Phillips and he singled, drove in two runs. Two hits and an error followed, ending the game. Lotz threw to Dyer and Wolf, batting off runs, one trailing to triple play, featured the second. Silberfeld was put in for Dyer and Wolf, batting on a decision, calling him out at home in the sixth. The run would have won the game.

New York, August 19.—Pittsburg evened the series with New York for today by taking the final game 8 to 3. The visitors hit Frommie hard in the first and second innings. Cheney got credit for the victory, Marquard being sent back from St. Louis yesterday, also lost his hard, and was soundly supported by Adams batting off Jacklitsch into his first big league home run in the fifth. Mitchell's single, Wilson's double, Fromme's single, Cheney's sacrifice and Adams' single netted three runs

SCOUT BOBBY GILKS, OF NAPS, IN TOWN

Bobby Gilks, known to Southern league fandom as manager of the old Shreveport team, but now acting as scout for the Cleveland Americans, is a visitor to Atlanta.

Mr. Gilks is here looking over several members of the Barons and the Crackers, and will also view the Billikens, who come here Thursday.

Gilbert Here, Too.

A Tuesday arrival among the gum-shoe artists representing the big league clubs was Billy Gilbert, former second baseman of the Giants, who is now scouting for them.

CROSS AND DUNDEE HAVE BEEN MATCHED

Los Angeles, Cal., August 19.—Leach Cross and Johnny Dundee were matched today to box twenty rounds in the afternoon of September 1 at the Vernon arena. This recalled the ancient fight fans over the cancelling of the Cross-Rivers match, owing to the indisposition of the little Mex, who is suffering from pleurisy. The winner of the Labor day bout will be given another match September 4.

National Board Decisions.

Auburn, N. Y., August 19.—The following decisions were rendered today by the national board of arbitration governing motor league baseball:

Claims Allowed—J. J. Hornbeck against Waycross, Ga.; Thomas Sloan against Knoxville, Tenn.; Homer Moseley against Dallas, Texas.

Claims Disallowed—Ed. Wheeler against Birmingham, Ala.; A. Hermann against United States League; Hillyer Higgins against Houston, Texas; Charles Fritz against Waco, Texas.

Secretary John H. Farrell, of the National association, announced today that National association clubs may have titles in limited number of players at their spring training camps. The players and their classifications, as follows:

Class A, 28; class B, 26; class C, 24; class D, 22. No club shall carry more than five players classified on its reserve list.

WATER WAGON DRIVER CAUGHT SELLING WHISKY

Tifton, Ga., August 19.—Special.—How can a prohibition town remain a prohibition town when one of its water wagon drivers is selling whisky? That is the question the contractors have before the court of the city of Tifton, and the court is now trying to find an answer to the question.

Last week a water wagon driver of the city was arrested and was fined $100 and costs. The water wagon driver was arrested on the charge of selling whisky, the charge being made by the police department as a result of an investigation which was said to have been made by Henry Wade, the chief of police of the city's water wagon.

Finds Stolen Mule.

Tifton, Ga., August 19.—Special.—Two unknown negroes rode into this city last night on a mule and horse. R. Lovett, of Sparks, the other night. Dr. Lovett was in the city on Saturday morning, having traded the mule and buggy to this place. He also had a horse. Early in the morning of Saturday it was found that the buggy and mule were found at the clothes.

Picnic at Union City.

Union City, Ga., August 19.—Special.—One of the most successful picnics of the season was held at Union City today when the Melon Athletic Association held sway. Not less than 2,000 people were present. The baseball game between the Fairburn high school and the Union City high school for the greater number of the members for the season between the Bearcats and Dukes was the feature of the day.

State Horticulture Society Meeting in Rabun County

Clayton, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Georgia State Horticulture society met in annual session at Clayton today with a large attendance.

Col. R. E. Hamby made the address of welcome. The response on behalf of society was made by J. B. Wight, of Cairo, Ga.

President R. C. Beerckmans made an interesting speech in which he outlined the lines of activity that should be followed by the society. Hon. J. F. Gray, of Savannah, followed President Beerckmans. The meeting then adjourned for dinner.

At the afternoon session the speech of most importance was made by Hon. E. J. Watson, agricultural commissioner of South Carolina. Professor Newman, of Clemson, discussed many things of interest to the horticulturist. Professor H. P. Stouckey and Colonel J. C. Wade followed Professor Newman. Mr. Hunter, of Cornell, and Professor T. H. McHatton discussed orchard management. Adjournment was then taken.

The society attended an old fiddlers' convention in the evening. Great interest was centered in the fruit exhibit, there being numbers of varieties of apples, peaches and grapes on display.

DEADLOCK CONTINUES ON N. Y GOVERNORSHIP

Reconvening of the Legislature Made No Change in Sulzer-Glynn Contest.

Albany, N. Y., August 19.—Expectation that the reconvening of the legislature today would be productive of spectacular developments in the muddled governorship situation failed of realization. Rumors that Acting Governor Glynn would submit a measure bearing in some way upon his official status drew large crowds to the capitol, but few members appeared.

In the tenominute session of the assembly conquest resolutions were introduced asking for the punishment for contempt in refusing to answer questions before the Frawley investigating committee of Louis A. Sarecky, governor Sulzer's private secretary during the gubernatorial campaign, and Thomas F. Colwell, who is alleged to have been Mr. Sulzer "dummy" in certain stock transactions.

The judiciary committee was called upon to investigate charges affecting the integrity of the assembly, said to have been made by James O. Gaynor.

The senate transacted no business both houses adjourning until tomorrow.

Glynn Formulating Program.

Most of Acting Governor Glynn's time was taken by private conferences with democratic leaders who were said to be advising him to the formulation of a definite program.

Governor Sulzer's day was uneventful except for his appointment of a new commission to investigate the mental condition of a patient confined in the Auburn state prison under sentence of death.

Special significance attaches to this action from the fact that, however, the commission must find in which case the due course proceedings to test the validity of the governor's act.

Governor Sulzer so-ned unpertained at the office of Attorney-General Carmody, possibly in connection with the impeachment proceedings.

It is noteworthy earlier, Sulzer's counsel decided against calling witnesses in his own behalf during the impeachment proceedings. He reserved his policy of silence adopted since the impeachment proceedings were instituted.

Fair Trial Is Wanted.

Former Senator Edgar T. Brackett and Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for the Frawley committee, are designated special counsel to assist the managers of the impeachment trial at a meeting held this afternoon. It is said that additional counsel would be named tomorrow. The names of John B. Stanchfield and William Travers Jerome are mentioned most prominently in this connection. A statement issued by the assembly managers says:

"The board wishes it known that it is extremely desirous that the proceedings shall be conducted in a full, open and impartial fashion."

The articles will be separately presented to the high court of impeachment and the only issue is the guilt or innocence of the accused officer, it is said. Technicalities will not be indulged in by the managers. The trial must be fair and free. The people are entitled to know, and will know the truth."

TURKS ARE ADVANCING ON THE BULGARIANS

Museum Troops Are Reoccupying Territory Lost in the Recent War.

Sofia, August 19.—The Turks have occupied Kuchuk Kakvak after an encounter with the small Bulgarian garrison. It is believed to be Turkey's intention to occupy and hold the territory westward to the Mesta river, but Kakvak lies to the permanent occupation, but in order to compel Bulgaria to treat with Turkey direct on the question of Adrianople, and thus prevent interference by the powers.

There are some indications that Greece is acting in collusion with Turkey. Greece has abandoned her pretentiousness to evacuate Kastal, Gumulzina and Dedeagatch-at next Thursday with the suggestion that Bulgaria occupy them the following day. Occupation Friday is impossible, owing to the difficulties of communication and Bulgaria has requested a two-month period of the evacuation and occupation until August 25. The request is expressed, however, that Greece will adhere to her plan to evacuate Thursday, and thus enable the Turks to occupy those towns the following day.

The Bulgarian government was officially informed today that the European powers are considering measures to compel Turkey to respect the treaty of London.

W. J. NUNNALLY MAY RUN FOR JUDGE WRIGHT'S JOB

Rome, Ga., August 19.—Considerable interest is being manifested in political circles in the report that W. J. Nunnally, one of Floyd's representatives in the lower house of the state legislature, will be a candidate for the office of Judge of the Rome circuit. Mr. Nunnally is a lawyer and was at one time judge of the Floyd county court. The bench of the Rome circuit, which comprises the counties of Floyd, Walker and Chattooga, is at present occupied by Judge Moses Wright, who was appointed a few months ago by the governor to succeed Judge Joseph M. Brown, who resigned to become a member of the board created to assume the presidency of the State Mutual Life Insurance company. Judge Wright's appointment will expire in January, 1915. The same rumor that associates judicial aspirations to Mr. Nunnally has it that Judge Wright will probably not be a candidate for re-election.

MOTHER OF THAW BROKEN IN SPIRIT

News of Son's Capture Causes Her Deep Grief—At First She Refused to Believe He Had Been Caught.

Cressen, Pa., August 19.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw at her country home, Birnhurst, tonight is broken in spirit over the tiding that her son, whom she supposed to be free when she left New York this morning, had been captured in Canada. Her many-gabled mansion, high up among the Allegheny foothills, two miles south of here, had been prepared for the home coming of a prodigal son, for word had been sent there today that Harry Thaw was expected to return within 48 hours. The news that he was in a Canadian jail was conveyed to her on a train while en route here.

At first Mrs. Thaw refused to believe the report. Early dispatches describing Thaw's arrest were shown her at 8:30 o'clock this evening in Philadelphia, but she returned them to their bearer with the remark that they were "ridiculous." She declined to make any statement until she was later informed that dispatches definitely confirming the arrest had been received and that he might be deported to the United States.

"I can't believe it," she said.

"I can't believe it," she exclaimed. "I don't believe it."

She was silent for a moment and tears came to her eyes.

"I don't believe it," she added brokenly. "I am going home. It will not change my plans. I am going home at once."

She declined to read the details of her son's arrest and refused to make any further statement. A large multitude of them she sat much of the window. Her demeanor was the antithesis of her happy mood when she and the son left Paris in April, when she boarded the train at New York.

Mrs. Thaw left the train at Cressen, soon after noon today. Her chauffeur boarded the train and handed her a telegram which she scanned briefly. She handed the telegram to her chauffeur, who entered the automobile and sped away. It was believed that the message was from her son.

Mrs. Thaw was joined at Philadelphia by her daughter, Mrs. Russell Frazer, of that city, who is staying with her tonight.

Lawyers Say Thaw Can't be Held.

Lawyers for Thaw declared in Philadelphia on August 19 that Harry Kendall Thaw's extradition from Canada would be impossible, it was said that Thaw could be held in Canada. It was said Thaw might be deported as an undesirable provided he was found to be insane or an alien outside the borders of Canada. In any event, it was said, Thaw would have the right to appeal to the Canadian courts upon which he entered from Canada.

Mr. Jerome stated that former District Attorney William A. Stoker, of Syracuse, personal counsel of Thaw, was preparing the case of habeas corpus which, in the case of extradition proceedings, is the first step. Mr. Stoker, who succeeded to assume the presidency of the State Mutual Life Insurance company, Judge Wright's appointment will expire in January, 1915. The same rumor that associates judicial aspirations to Mr. Nunnally has it that Judge Wright will probably not be a candidate for re-election.

BACK ACROSS BORDER THAW WILL BE SENT

indictment charging him with having unlawfully escaped from Matteawan, was and without permitting a plea he would file to it at Sherbrooke for a writ of habeas corpus for Thaw.

Two men were arrested with Thaw at Coaticook. They are believed to be confederates who aided Thaw in his escape. The two men refused to give their names or say anything about themselves. They followed Thaw here from Coaticook and remained in town.

W. L. Shurtleff, the Coaticook lawyer, employed by Thaw, denounced the hearing before Justice Jones as illegal and said he would apply tomorrow for a writ of habeas corpus for Thaw before the Sherbrooke superior court commissioner. Should the writ be refused Mr. Shurtleff said he would seek an appeal.

There is every indication that Thaw intends to wage a bitter fight against extradition, deportation or both.

Thaw Makes Statement.

From his cell in the county jail tonight he sent out to the newspaper men a statement under this caption, typewritten by himself:

No one has contended that for two years, nearly that Thaw has been in the limelight of publicity. Therefore, it is a choice of decision in the matter of his disappearance. Is it any less crazy to take a pistol to a defiant unarmed man, than a man who calls you a —— and threatens to kill you before morning?"

The statement itself was a printed synopsis of Thaw's attorney Jerome's speech—not purported to be spoken to the jury at Thaw's second trial.

After Thaw had spent some hours in his cell and after supper, at his four quarters, he was removed to the hospital where the accommodations are better. It was at his lawyer's suggestion that he consented to see reporters.

"Where did you intend to go after leaving Montreal?" he was asked.

"I may have been going home, he replied quickly and finally.

No amount of questioning could induce him to say where "home" is. Questioned by the interviewers persistently to tell where he had been or what he had done since leaving Matteawan, Thaw refused to be drawn into discussion of any questions concerning or bearing on the topic.

Rode at Breakneck Speed.

The automobile ride, however, concerning that they had an all-day ride at breakneck speed after he left Matteawan. An automobile answering the description of his has been seen to have passed through White River Junction, Vt., Sunday night. The same car was seen yesterday morning at Woodsville, N. H. On each of these occasions it carried two men. It is believed Thaw and the two companions left one man to drive the car to Dexter, N. H., before boarding the train.

Of this, however, Thaw refused to talk. He was then asked:

"Do you care to say anything about threats you are said to have made that you would go to certain people once you were out of Matteawan?"

"I shall make no answer to the nonsense of that sort that has been printed," he replied. And that ended the interview.

The photographers came next. They wanted a picture. Again Thaw balked. He could not consent to it—couldn't even consider it—until he put on a clean shirt and collar. He explained that he had had no opportunity to change his clothes since leaving Matteawan.

Thaw's two companions surpassed him in reticence. All the newspaper men could get was a description of each. One of them is 5 feet 8 or 9 inches tall, smooth faced with dark hair and eyes and heavy set. The other is about the same height, lighter in build and of fair complexion.

After his first flush of excitement, Thaw has been quiet. This has been due almost wholly to his counsel, W. L. Shurtleff, hurriedly retained, after Thaw had been arrested by the Canadian constable. Shurtleff's admonition not to talk checked the prisoner's speech as effectually as a gag.

Denied Identity at First.

Before Shurtleff was retained, however, Thaw seesawed with declarations that he was Thaw and he was not Thaw. He frankly admitted his identity when first detected yet offered to bet the constable 10 that he wasn't Thaw when pressed by the deputy sheriff who caused his arrest that he was Thaw, but stubbornly resisted the suggestion as to his identity while in the jail at Coaticook, only to break down in the end, acknowledge his name and send dispatches which rivetted the already certain identification.

These telegrams were addressed to Mrs. Mary Thaw, his mother, to Roger O'Mara, the Thaw family detective, and others who have played leading roles in his attempts to obtain liberty by legal means.

The keen wit and eye of a rural deputy sheriff enmeshed Thaw once more in the processes of the law and were responsible for his recapture. Officers were seeking him the village constable here took him into custody. Bigelow, the deputy sheriff of Coos county, N. H., boarded a Maine Central train at Lancaster last night and sat down in the smoking car next to Thaw.

Bigelow's eyes fell on his way to Colebrook, his home, when he heard the conversation of men in the seat behind him. Some one asked the other the name of the county seat of the county in which they were passing. "Lancaster," was the reply.

How Thaw Was Betrayed.

A well-built man of erect figure, whose dark hair was slightly shrinkled at the temples and who wore a mustache, stood at an unusual stare, arose and came to Kelsea's seat. The stranger wanted to know the name of the county seat through which they were passing. Kelsea thinks, he shadow him Kelsea would look and a few minutes later was off in a high-powered automobile in a whirlwind chase for the Sleuth Was Right Behind.

Right behind the sleuth automobile of Bigelow with the deputy burning the road a few miles behind him. At Stratford Thaw left the highway and drove over the international line into the Canadian woods. After a journey that seemed purposeless to Bigelow and his companions, the officers and refused to go any further. It was dark but Thaw and his companions did not. Thaw then left the car and the lawyer, dismissed him and by starlight they began to make their way through the forest to the open.

Thaw and his companions came and Thaw offered the farmer $8 to drive the two to the village of Hermenegild Stafford. The farmer drove and Thaw and his two friends were in their rooms at the village hotel at 10 o'clock.

Kelsea had gone through the village, too. He quickly learned of the arrival of three strangers and telephoned the information to the police, consisting of the village constable, decided to let Thaw sleep. At 6 o'clock this morning, however, he and Deputy Sheriff Bigelow forcibly placed the three men under arrest. After Thaw's arrest Kelsea telegraphed the Pinkham authorities at Matteawan, claiming the reward.

"I'm not Thaw," were the first words first words to the constable. "I'll bet you $1 I'm not."

In the Village Lock-up.

Notwithstanding Thaw and his friends were bundled into an automobile and whisked away to Coaticook. There Thaw was put in the village lockup, the constable standing guard at the door. Thaw sent word he wanted a lawyer and W. L. Shurtleff was summoned. His first words were an admonition to his client not to talk to reporters.

Before Thaw had been long in the lockup he admitted his identity. His counsel, however, decided to say anything about themselves.

After Thaw and his counsel had spent an hour or more in consultation he was taken from the hearing to the office of Justice of the Peace Dupuis and formally arraigned on the following indictment.

That Harry Thaw was legally convicted and confined for life and unlawfully escaped from the penitentiary.

Justice Jones conducted the affair briefly. Thaw read the indictment and that was all. He was not permitted to enter a plea before his yet visited lawyer could enter an objection the court had ordered him committed without bail to the Sherbrooke jail for hearing tomorrow.

Crestfallen, Thaw went back to the Coaticook lock-up to await the coming of the automobile to take him to Sherbrooke. The assurance of his lawyers failed to comfort and he refused food. Later, when he was taken to the jail at Sherbrooke, a meal was sent to him and he ate hard-boiled egg and ham sandwiches before the inspector's eyes. Only a small proportion of the crowds population.

Great Crowd Cheered Thaw.

There was talk that hung at Thaw's heels of a mob in Sherbrooke, in comparison with the throngs that greeted him on his arrival on. Most of Sherbrooke's 18,000 inhabitants swarmed to the station and greeted him with a mighty cheer.

The almost overwhelmed him with their demonstrative welcome. In the ensuing rush, he and his guards had to fight their way to the automobile waiting to take him to jail.

That was the second shouted again and again. Thaw smiled and bowed in return.

At the jail Thaw was given the best cell in the place, permitted to smoke and allowed to send out for his supper.

To reporters who accompanied him from Coaticook to Sherbrooke, Thaw showed what he claimed to be transportation through the dominion to Detroit. He did not permit close examination of the papers he displayed and his claim could not be verified. Thaw seemed to be entirely familiar with the laws of the country and cited the Jack Johnson case in support of his contention that he could not be legally held or deported.

THAW MAY BE HELD ON BRIBERY WARRANT

Washington, August 19.—Harry K. Thaw may be extradited from Canada on a warrant charging bribery, but there is no provision in any of the Anglo-American treaties for extradition on a charge of conspiracy, except as it relates to conspiracy to defraud on the high seas. There is no provision for extradition on the charge "fugitive from justice."

Those are the views of state department officials. In none of the treaties is there a "hot pursuit" clause which would permit the arrest of a fugitive who just across the border just ahead of his captors. Such a provision did exist in an old treaty with Mexico.

Immigration authorities here believe Thaw could be detained and returned to the United States by the Canadian immigration authorities as an insane man or as an undesirable alien. They have no definite information, however, of the provisions of the Canadian law.

MEN WHO AIDED THAW HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED

New York, August 19.—There seems little doubt that the conspirators who effected Thaw's escape from Matteawan have been fully identified. All indications are that the leader was Richard J. Butler, an intimate friend of ex-Police Chief Devery, and a former senate lobbyist.

Butler's chief assistant seems to have been Roger Thompson, a New York chauffeur, described as a middle-mannered fellow, but a dare-devil driver.

A third conspirator was Thomas Flood, a chauffeur who owns a landaulet.

Apparently Flood received Thaw at the asylum gate and took him to the roof of the hill, where Thompson with a sixty-horse power touring car was waiting. This car was said to have belonged to a Broadway saloonkeeper named Carroll.

Both Thompson started on the road to Danbury, but at Ridgefield, Conn. missed his way and got on the road to Norwalk. At Wilton he and the other conspirators altered conditions. Meanwhile Butler headed for Long Island sound and was supposed to have separated from the conspirators and crossed to his place at Oyster Bay, whence he returned to New York and emitted a letter from Thaw to his mother.

OFFICERS GO TO CANADA TO TRY TO GET THAW

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., August 19.—District Attorney Edward Conger, Sheriff Hornbeck and former District Attorney Mack left tonight for Sherbrooke, Quebec, where Thaw is confined in the Sherbrooke county jail on Matteawan asylum.

The officials have a warrant charging conspiracy, issued by Justice Morschauser, of the supreme court in order not be extradited on the conspiracy charge, a new warrant charging bribery will be issued. Thaw and an attempt made to extradite the fugitive on that charge.

The district attorney hopes, however, that Canada will deport Thaw, and in so doing, land him over the international line in New York instead of in New Hampshire or Vermont.

Should he this done Mr. Conger and his associates will be waiting on the line to take Thaw into custody and bring him back. They don't want him returned in any other state than New York, because he would then have an opportunity to prove he is insane, and tedious litigation and delay would follow.

Sheriff Hornbeck and District Attorney Conger went to Matteawan this afternoon to get a more complete description of the escaped men. Butler, Roger Thompson, Eugene Duffy, Michael O'Keefe and Thomas Flood—who it is alleged aided Thaw's escape.

Howard Burnim, the Matteawan guard who engineered Thaw's escape, made his escape from Matteawan when notified that Thaw had been captured. Burnim will be given a hearing Thursday on charges of being conspirator. All bailed at $10,000.

Four Killed by Lightning.

Dexter, Me., August 19.—Four persons were killed by lightning in a storm today. The dead are W. L. Barnum, assistant engineer of the Bangor & Aroostook railway company; George Gregory, William Perry and the latter's small son.

WANTED TO GO WEST AND FIGHT INDIANS

Boy of Seven, Found Wandering on Streets, Says Stepfather Beat Him.

"I don't wana go home. I wana go west and fight injins and rob trains. My papa beats me and treats me mean, and I won't stand it any longer. Me and another boy is goin' to rob a bank and get money to go to Montana, where the cowboys and train robbers live," said little Albert Miller, 7 years of age, when brought to police headquarters Tuesday at midnight after some one telephoned to the stationhouse and told the officers that a little white boy was wandering about the corner of Elliot and Thurman streets, apparently lost.

The boy's greatest ambition, according to his story, is to live like one of the great border bandits of the days of 49, of the species that exist now only between the covers of the dime novel and in cheap melodrama. He said that he and another lad, whose name he did not know, had intended robbing a bank last night and leaving for the beloved west of the imagination, but the other boy failed to keep his trust. Determined, however, that the other boy's failure to keep his appointment should not deprive him of the pleasures of a trip to the wild and woolly west, and all the subsequent murders, and wholesale prospecting and rescues of beautiful maidens from the savage Indians, young Miller had set out last night to rob a bank by himself.

He told the police that his father's name was Henry Miller, a carpenter, living at 62 Davis street. His mother is grown to him, so he states, and he hates to leave her behind. His father, or rather, his stepfather, often beats him with a buggy whip, he alleges, and mistreats him in every way.

The boy's story in regard to the beatings given him by his step-father will be given a most thorough investigation by the police department.

Going Up, Up, Up--The Price of Atlanta Real Estate. Buy That Building TODAY. It Will Soon Soar Beyond Your Reach.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building.

It was announced yesterday that Thomas L. Couper, owner, had leased through William A. Fuller, trustee of the estate of O. A. Farrar, bankrupt, to A. D. Briers, No. 28 Peachtree. The lease is for four years on a sliding scale, which will total $26,000.

The first year's rental, dating from September 1, will be at the rate of $612.50 per month, second year, $5.25 per month; third year, $550 per month, and fourth year $600 per month.

This place is the location of the Elite motion picture theater. Mr. Briers has bought out the picture show equipment and will be leasing for $7,900. The terms on this purchase were one-third cash and the balance in three and six months, at 7 per cent interest.

Permit for Clubhouse.

The Druid Hills Golf club has been issued a permit to erect a clubhouse on the golf links at Druid Hills, at an estimated cost of $18,000.

Edward Daugherty, the architect, has designed a handsome building which will be finished in stucco, and roofed with slate. The design calls for wide spacious veranda and all modern conveniences.

$30,000 Loan Deed.

Mrs. Ethel Lamar has given a loan deed on No. 11 Cedar street, just off Peachtree, for $30,000 to the Mutual Assurance company of Worchester, Mass. Terms are five years at 6 per cent interest. The property, which is 251x24x irregular, was bought by Mr. Kimball from the north wall of which adjoins the Lamar property.

Sale on Peachtree Road.

Hudson Moore has sold a lot on the east side of Peachtree road, just off Peachtree, for $7,000, which is the first part of the Peachtree Heights park subdivision.

Third Interest Sold.

Jesse L. Ward has sold a third interest he owned in a lot on the east side of Spring street, between Harris and Baker streets, for $7,000. The lot is 45x150 and a dwelling on it. The sale was to relatives who owned the other two-thirds, but the deal was handled through brokers. This record is being at the rate of $400 per front foot, making $27,000 for the entire parcel.

Stone Bungalow Sold.

J. B. Frost has purchased from Hiram Richardson the stone bungalow at the southwest corner of Waverly and Peachtree streets for $25,000. Mr. Richardson took as security for $5,000 a mortgage on the place.

Church Plans by Downing.

Plans for the new West Presbyterian church and manse to be built at the northwest corner of Pea street and Seventeenth street, at a total cost of $110,000, are being prepared by Edward Downing, one of Atlanta's prominent architects.

The Peachtree lot is 200x161 feet, and cost approximately $47,000. Work will probably be started within the next few days on the church.

The old church on Marietta street, on a 50-foot lot, is being held for $180,000.

Easter Money Conditions.

A great deal has been said and written of late about the money conditions in Atlanta, and the impression that matters were looking a shade dark due to numerous conditions. However, financiers of the city say that this period has practically passed, and that money is easier than at any time during the past few months.

One fine feature ascribed to the coming summer crop, which bids fair to rival any large crop of the past ten years.

Another is the fact that the Wilson administration has not run the country "to the dogs," as was freely predicted before the late national election.

This easier money condition has lent confidence to the big builders of the city, and quite a number have recently withdrew from the line of activity, are busily preparing fall plans for buildings on a larger scale than ever before.

Loans are continuing to be made on safe Atlanta property at very reasonable rates, and there are considered a number of the big eastern life insurance companies which a short while ago were chary of lending money in Atlanta, property are now being daily represented in the loan field, in both large and small amounts.

Oakwood Terrace Opens.

OVER 100 PERSONS KILLED AND INJURED

Car Loaded With Dynamite Explodes in Mexican Capital—Thirty Bodies Already Taken From the Ruins.

Mexico City, August 19.—An explosion on a gondola loaded with dynamite on the tracks of a street car company in a thickly settled portion of Tacubaya, a suburb of the capital, killed or injured more than one hundred persons, chiefly women and children, this morning. Thirty bodies already have been taken from the ruins of the houses. Scores of wounded are lying in the streets.

The disaster was said to have been caused by a collision between a car loaded with iron pipe and a dynamite car.

For a radius of 500 feet from the explosion scene not a house was left intact. Most of the dwellings were of adobe construction, and those nearest to the car loaded with explosives were crushed into heaps of clay and dust, under which, it is feared, scores of victims will be found.

Most of the victims were of the laboring class, and perished in the collapsed adobe houses.

The explosion occurred at 7 o'clock, when most of the men had left for work.

Many fine residences in Tacubaya, and in the connecting town of San Pedro were partially wrecked.

Tacubaya lies in the direction of the government powder factory at Santa Fe. At first it was believed the explosion had occurred there, and rumors of an attack by Zapata rebels caused much apprehension.

ning around here like a maniac. "It takes places like this to ruin young men," says he. "I'll have you closed if it takes the last cent I've got."

He Went Into Hiding.

"I went into hiding. What O'Brien told me, on top of what Diepenbrook had said scared me. I told O'Brien I'd heard my father was looking for me with a policeman, and he said that was true.

"Later I learned from my uncle that my father was gone, and I came out of hiding. Miss Warrington and Miss Norris had visited at my hotel.

"On March 4, Caminetti, Diepenbrook and Marshal Dicks, my uncle, with Miss Norris, and we talked things over. Miss Norris suggested that I leave town. I explained the difficulty of doing that. Business men had placed several hundred thousand dollars in contracts in my hands.

"My uncle said I should go home to my wife and quit running around, and leave other women alone. Miss Norris insisted that I'd best leave town. My uncle told me my wife knew about my affairs.

"The next day, Monday, Caminetti came to my hotel and said:

"'That father of yours is a terror. He called me on the phone to ask where you were, and when I told him I didn't know, he called me a liar, and told me he'd have me fired out of my job, that I wasn't fit to be working for the state board of control.'

His Wife After Him.

"Cam told me his wife had been after him, that she had told him she was going to Judge Hughes for a warrant, that things had gone far enough.

"On the Wednesday night before we left for Reno my uncle called up me to go home. As I was entering the house I met Caminetti leaving. He wouldn't speak to me.

"I had dinner, and went down town again. Cam told me what his wife had been doing to him. 'You've been a snake to me for four years,' he said she told him, 'and I'll make you know you what a real serpent is. I'm going to cause you untold trouble.'

"Cam also had called him to the house by the telephone. He said he was so scared when he went in that he hid behind a door when he saw he coming until he was sure she didn't have a gun.

"That same night I saw O'Brien, too. He told me that he'd been through Marsha Warrington's mule that my father had said he'd heard she was going with a married man, that he was suspicious of me, and I had sworn that if he had ever found us together he'd kill us both."

JUDGE JOHN C. HART CONFERS WITH SLATON

Judge John C. Hart, the new tax commissioner, was in Atlanta yesterday and spent most of the day in conference with the governor. It is understood that the two officials went over carefully together the details of the new law and outlined the plan which should be followed in its enforcement. Neither of them had anything to say for publication as to the results of their conference.

An office is being prepared for Judge Hart across the hall from the office now used by the comptroller general. The records which have hitherto filled that room, consisting principally of the county digests for a series of years are being removed to the basement. It is understood that the office will be ready for Judge Hart's occupancy the first of next week.

Oakwod Terrace adjoins Druid Hills, west of the East Lake drive, fronting on the North Decatur car line. This property is known as the "Kirkpatrick" property, now owned by the McKenzie Trust company.

The natural beauty of Oakwood Terrace is unexcelled in the neighborhoods of either Atlanta, Decatur or Kirkwood. It lies in the center of a beautiful wooded grove of hardwood trees. Nearly all the lots are well shaded and drained.

There has already been considerable demand for these lots, and its quick sale seems assured. The streets have already been graded, and work on the tile sidewalks is expected to commence at once. Prices range from $450 to $1,000, according to locality and size.

John N. Holland, who has been connected with the Bottenfield agency for some time, will have charge of sale of these lots.

Besides the paved Boulevard of Ponce de Leon through Druid Hills to this property, it offers the people good car service on the North Decatur line, it being 15 minutes' ride from Five Points.

QUARTER-ACRE TRACTS TO FIVE-ACRE TRACTS

ALTOLOMA is situated just beyond Decatur, on the Georgia railroad and the Stone Mountain electric car line, both of which cut through the very heart of ALTOLOMA, distance of nearly 1,500 feet. ALTOLOMA is on the "New York to Atlanta Highway." ALTOLOMA has three churches. ALTOLOMA has a handsome public school building, which has just been completed at a cost of $3,000. ALTOLOMA is close to Agnes Scott College and the new Lamar College. ALTOLOMA contains more than 250 beautiful lots, ranging in size from QUARTER-ACRE TRACTS to FIVE-ACRE TRACTS. Many of these tracts have running water, ALTOLOMA is unusually high and dry and enjoys perfect drainage throughout.

STONE MOUNTAIN ELECTRIC CAR LINE IS FAST NEARING COMPLETION.

The Georgia Railway and Power Company is extending the Decatur car line to Stone Mountain as fast as money, men and material can accomplish the work. It will be only a few weeks until this company will be operating its cars to ALTOLOMA, and just as soon as the first car makes its initial trip the price of every lot remaining unsold in ALTOLOMA will advance TEN TO THIRTY PER CENT. Don't wait until the shrewd speculators have picked all the plums and forced both prices and terms far beyond your reach.

COTTON ADVANCE DUE TO WEATHER

Prices Made New High Ground for the Movement. Market Closed at Gain of 15 to 24 Points.

New York, August 19.—Unfavorable weather and crop reports caused a sharp advance in the cotton market today. Yesterday's losses were not only recovered, but prices made new high ground for the movement, and closed within a few points of the best at a net gain of 15 to 24 points.

A feature that the precipitation reported yesterday in the southwest had not been sufficient to fully relieve drouthy conditions was sufficiently by the reading of the weekly weather report and some uncertainty as to the progress of the staten. The crop was also created by the official statement that several states were in need of moisture. Moreover, there were a few scattering reports of deterioration east of the river. as well as unfavorable reports from Texas and Oklahoma, and while the news did not stimulate any general bullish movement, it served to restrict offerings, and thus render the market responsible to a fairly active demand on the part of local bulls.

Reports that the weather was dry and hot in both Texas and Oklahoma again this morning were evidently a factor in the higher prices were later than due, with private cables reporting a considerable demand from the northern spinning trade from Texas. The local market opened firmly, with an active demand from shorts and combined influence of foreign strength and unfavorable crop reports, with active buying by shorts, up 14 to 24 points, not higher during the early trading. Realizing caused slight reactions during the forenoon, but the market firmed up again after the publication of the weekly crop report and the best prices of the day were made during the afternoon.

Wire houses with southern connections were considerable buyers during the day, supposedly on reports from Oklahoma, where rain was reported as almost a failure in some sections. While very unfavorable reports were also received from north Texas.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, August 19.—The cotton market had a firm undertone today at the start. A good demand was in evidence all day long and was met by only moderate offerings. Both sides bought but the inquiry was the best feature of the market. If was wholly a weather market and the threats of the weather bureau for rain were the dominating influence. The weather map was dry, the detailed weather report for the past night of rainfall in Texas, claimed in private reports, the weekly weather summary of the government claims of scarcity of moisture over a large part of Texas and Oklahoma, and the weather forecast of rain and unsettled weather for the entire cotton region.

The market opened steady with a range of 9 to 11 points. Liverpool was better than due, which private advices said was caused by continental buying. The market was pushed up based on expectations of a bullish weekly report summary. The market was very active all day, in the afternoon standing 25 to 29 points above last night's close.

In the early trading, the advances amounted to about 15 points, following a small reaction at noon. The market closed steady at the top figures of the day.

Spot cotton steady, uncharted; middling 12. Sales on spot 453 bales; to arrive 1,047 bales; ordinary, 8¾, nominal; strict ordinary, 9-16, nominal; good ordinary, 11-16, nominal; strict low middling, 11-16, nominal; low middling, 11-16, nominal; strict middling, 12, nominal; middling, 12 5-16; good middling, 12 5-16; strict middling, 12 11-16; middling fair, 12¾, nominal; nominal; receipts, 429; stock, 154,647.

New Orleans, 200 to 300, against 144 last year.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, August 19.—Firm cables from Liverpool today, where Russia and the continent were reported buying, influenced an advance of 20 points in the local market. The absence of general rains in Texas and Oklahoma also played its part in the buying movement, although good showers occurred in central and southern Texas. However, these are not considered sufficient and as there is a probability of the hot, dry spell advancing into the central and eastern parts of the cotton belt, sellers were less aggressive than of late.

FREE SUGAR IN 1916 CARRIES IN SENATE

All Amendments Are Defeated—All Democrats Supported Free Sugar Except Senators From Louisiana.

Washington, August 19.—President Wilson's program for free sugar in 1916 carried the day in the senate today, when democrats rallied to the support of the tariff bill and defeated all amendments to the sugar schedule. With all bu tSenators Ransdell and Thornton, of Louisiana, standing firmly for the administration measure, the democrats defeated the Bristow amendment for a compromise duty; the Norris amendment against free sugar and the Gallinger amendment against free maple sugar.

An amendment to abolish immediately the Dutch standard color test for sugar was adopted during the fight. It was proposed by Senator Bristow, republican, and accepted by Senators Simmons and Williams, democratic managers of the bill. Under its provisions the Dutch standard, against which a consistent fight has been waged since 1909, will be abolished as soon as the tariff bill becomes law instead of next March, as the measure otherwise would have provided.

Louisiana Senators Bolted.

The decision on the sugar schedule came at the end of a debate devoid of much of the bitterness that had been expected in connection with this fight. The two Louisiana senators made clear early in the consideration of the bill that they would vote with the republicans in favor of a duty on sugar, but there were no other waverings in teh ranks of the democrats.

Senator Bristow's amendment would have established a gradual reduction in duty from the present tariff of $1.90 per hundred pounds until in six years the tariff would have been $1.27 1-2. Under the Cuban treaty this would have established a 20 per cent tariff on Cuban sugar, which constitutes the bulk of the imports into the United States.

A hard fight was made for the Bristow amendment, but when finally forced to a vote it was defeated 39 to 34. But for the absence of Senators Works, Sterling and Lippitt, republicans, and Senator Poindexter, progressive, the vote probably would have been 39 to 38.

A subsequent motion by Senator Gallinger to strike out the provision to make maple sugar and glucose free of duty in 1916 was beaten 37 to 35.

Square Test on Free Sugar.

The proposal to put all cane and raw sugar on the free list in 1916, behind which President Wilson had mustered the democratic majority after a long persistent effort, came squarely before the senate on a motion by Senator Norris, republican, to strike out that feature of the bill. This was defeated by a viva voce vote, Senator Norris not demanding a roll call.

This proposal will come up again when the bill has passed its present stage of consideration "in committee of the whole" and advanced to the next reading in the senate. Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana, who gave notice earlier in the day that he would make a similar motion, urged Senator Norris to wait. When made again the motion undoubtedly will call for a record vote, but democratic leaders tonight expressed confidence that they would still have a clear majority of at least one vote.

Senator Works is in California and is not paired with any democratic senator. Nine democrats were paired with nine republicans on today's vote. With a further break in the democratic ranks the vote still would be 48 to 47, should all pairs be broken and all senators return. Should the democrats insist upon withdrawing existing pairs, the advantage would be largely in their favor, as Senators Depew and Root, republicans are in Europe; Senator Burleigh is ill; Senator Works has intimated he does not expect to return to Washington for the tariff session.

The acceptance of Senator Bristow's Dutch standard amendment and its immediate adoption was greeted with applause on the republican side. Senator Williams, democrat, said he had expected to make a similar suggestion so that the abolishment of the Dutch standard, which is held to be a strong deterrent to trade in the interest of sugar refiners, would not be delayed until March, 1914, when the rest of the sugar tariff becomes effective.

More Sugar Amendments.

Senator Simmons gave notice that he would offer further amendments to the sugar schedule before the bill was approved, to make it clear that the existing sugar duty of $1.60 per hundred is to continue in force until the new rate of $1 per hundred becomes effective next March, and Senator Cummins said he believed unless such amendments were made sugar would come in free of duty from the time the new tariff becomes law until the proposed duties take effect next year.

Action on the sugar schedule today was followed by a speeding up of the legislative machinery on remaining sections. Democratic leaders expressed confidence tonight that tariff revision would be greatly hastened within the next week. The fight over free wool is still to occur, but the success today on the sugar schedule was accepted as an indication of what will happen when wool is reached.

Before adjournment tonight the senate had disposed of the schedule devoted to rates on spirits, wines and liquors, with the exception of that provision relating to the tax on fortified wines; and the cotton schedule was taken up and briefly debated. Senator Lippitt attacking the proposed system of fixing ad valorem duties on thread and yarn based on the trade number of the product.

FINDS STOLEN AUTO IN PAINTER'S SHOP

Fitzgerald, Ga., August 19.—(Special.) When Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dorminy left for a trip through the west two weeks ago, their seven passenger Cadillac car was left locked in their private garage. Upon their return today it was found that some thief had pulled the staple, stolen the car and put the staple back as it was found. Mr. Dorminy got busy with the telegraph and located the car in Alabama. There it had been left by a well-known young man of the city, with orders for the car to be repainted. The paint had all been sandpapered off and the car was being made ready for its new coat.

The young man "got wise" and left town on the noon train before it was known that he had been concerned in the affair.

C. L. REDDING ELECTED RECORDER IN WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—City council tonight elected City Attorney Charles L. Redding as recorder to fill the newly-created position, which relieves the mayor of police duties. By a strange coincidence the bill creating the new office was prepared by the city attorney with the assistance of Mayor Reed. A brother of Representative J. Lee Crawley, Jerome Crawley, as elected city attorney to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Redding as recorder.

SCANDAL IS BREWING IN WAYCROSS COUNCIL

Waycross, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—It became known tonight that an investigation will shortly be asked of certain transactions of city council whereby action contrary to the city charter was taken. It is not known who is involved, but it is understood that an alderman at least has violated the charter provisions, and under this act stands liable for impeachment. That the probe anticipated through this account will create quite a stir in Waycross is certain and more than one official may be involved.

BAUGHMAN-ARNETT.

Sylvania, Ga., August 19.—(Special.) Mr. J. W. Arnett, of this place, and Miss Ellie Baughman, of Buck Creek, in this county, were married Sunday morning at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Baughman, Rev. Robert Rouse officiating. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for a trip to Atlanta, Indian Springs and other points, and upon returning will make their home in Sylvania. Both have many friends here and elsewhere who will be pleased to learn of their happiness.

RICHEST OF DIPLOMATS' WIVES

Mrs. Frederic C. Penfield, wife of the new ambassador to Austria, is perhaps the wealthiest among the new family of diplomatic wives. Before she left Philadelphia with Mr. Penfield for Vienna, it was announced that she would entertain on a lavish scale in her embassy residence. Mrs. Penfield was formerly Mrs. Wakeman-Walker and was considered one of Philadelphia's richest widows when Mr. Penfield married her a few years ago. Her wealth, entertainments here and her yearly musicale in New York attracted much attention from society. It is said Mrs. Penfield's home abroad will be the mecca of many society folks during her residence there.

FULTON COUNTY SHOWS LARGE TAX INCREASE

$10,823,080 Gain, More Than Double Total of 137 Other Counties Heard From.

Tax returns for Fulton county for the year 1913 were announced yesterday by Tax Receiver T. M. Armistead. They show a gain for the year of $10,823,080 over the year 1912.

The total property valuations of the county are $122,158,115, as compared with $111,375,035 for 1912. The total returns for the state last year were $842,258,342. Allowing for an increase of $20,000,000 in the tax returns this year, which is probably a liberal estimate, the returns for 1913 will be $862,000,000 in round numbers.

It will thus be seen that Fulton county alone returns 14.2 per cent, or nearly one seventh of all the taxes of the state. The increase for Fulton county is nearly $3,000,000 in excess of the net increase from all the other 137 counties of the state so far heard from.

The various totals are as follows: County real estate, $4,106,460; city real estate, $81,023,490; bank shares, $6,817,075; stocks and bonds, $1,097,825; money notes and accounts, $10,385,715; merchandise, $8,915,400; automobiles, $52,160; manufactories, $4,262,749; capital in mining, $3,350; furniture, $2,-234,525; jewelry, $224,430; stock, $309,890; dogs, $1,175; vehicles, $77,185; all other property, $941,118; total, $122,-158,115.

The tax digest also informs the public that there are 200 lawyers in Fulton county; 265 doctors, 48 dentists, 15 architects, 17 mechanical engineers, one lonesome veterinarian, an equally solitary corporation president; two corporation superintendents, and 77,544 1-2 acres of land.

WIFE WITHDRAWS SUIT AGAINST PROF. KENYON

Says She Made Charges, Naming Sister As Co-respondent When Mind Was "Torn Up."

Dawson, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. Lizzie Kenyon has dismissed her sensational suit, recently instituted in Terrell superior court, against her husband, Professor Jerome L. Kenyon, for divorce and alimony, in which she named her younger sister, Miss Bertha Averitt, as co-respondent. Mrs. Kenyon says her suit was filed when her mind was considerably "torn up" and some of the statements contained in her petition were not fully understood by her. She has now modified those in the interest of justice to herself, her children, her husband and her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon have gone back together and she states they are living peacefully together and that she is voluntarily having the whole proceedings dismissed from court and regrets the unpleasant publicity of the whole matter.

Commission Rule Beaten.

Philadelphia, August 19.—Advocates of the commission form of government were defeated yesterday in the first elections held in the state under a law passed by the legislature at its last session. The boroughs of Sunbury, Shamokin and Mount Carmel all voted against the innovation. The fact that there would be an increase in the cost of liquor licenses under the proposed charter is declared by those favoring the change to have been responsible for the result.

AT THE THEATERS.

Jewell Kelley Company.

(At the Bijou.)

The sale of seats for the opening performance of the Jewell Kelley company will begin Thursday morning at the Bijou box office. Much interest is being shown in this engagement, which promises to be one of the most successful dramatic runs that has ever been played to local theater-goers. The opening bill will be the comedy drama, "Under Southern Skies," a play pulsating with human interest, well staged as to scenery and mechanical effects.

During the engagement of the company there will be a change of play every week and there will be various contests which will enable patrons of the Bijou to select the most popular plays to be presented.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

An excellent show at the Forsyth this week has attracted more than the usual attendance, that is if such a thing was possible. The bill is clever from start to finish. Perhaps after the show is over, the majority of the audience will vote in favor of pretty Grace DeMar, for honors. Willie Weston can thank his lucky star that Atlanta possessed such a public as she-and Winburn is as good as any of the professional piano players that have appeared on a local stage. The posing of the Castillians, the comedy of Kennedy and Burns and the Japanese variety entertainers all help make the show a treat.

Moving Pictures.

(At the Grand.)

There has been a better motion picture play than "Victory" exhibited in Atlanta. The Grand is presenting this picture at matinee and night performance daily this week. Popular prices prevail—10 cents at the matinees and 10, 15 and 25 cents at night. The picture is in five reels, and every one of interest. The real big interest in the picture rests in the exhibition of United States warships in action. The aboard have to travel to a training round to see the boats in action. A trip to the Grand is all that is necessary. The Utah is seen in peace and in war. Her sailors and marines are seen at play and fighting. There is a pretty love story well acted by real capable people, and some of the most distinguished of naval officials are seen at work.

Dr. Ridley Coming Home.

Dr. C. A. Ridley, pastor of the Central Baptist church, who far the past three months has been on a vacation 'n North Carolina, will return to the city Friday night and fill his pulpit Sunday morning. Prayer services at the church will be held tonight at 8 o'clock by Rev. L. J. Ehrlich.

DISPOSAL PLANT READY ON SEPT. 1

Receiver Now in Hopes of Having Three Instead of Two Filter Beds in Operation in Fifteen Days.

Following an inspection of the work on the new $195,000 sewage disposal plant on Peachtree creek, Assistant Construction Chief W. A. Hansel stated yesterday afternoon that the plant will be practically completed September 1.

During the past three weeks Receiver Sullivan, who is in charge of the work, received more stone for the filter beds than he anticipated, and he is now in hopes of having three instead of two filter beds in operation within fifteen days. The remaining six acres of beds will be finished some time in October.

"If the quarries continue shipping stone as fast as they have been we will have the plant ready earlier than we anticipated," Engineer Hansel says "the small details of construction are now being picked up."

The city is looking to the county commissioners to clear the creek bed of debris and straighten the channel. According to Captain Clayton this work is not only advantageous to the successful operation of the plant, but is necessary to eliminate any possibility of a nuisance arising during the first few weeks of operation. With only two acres of filter beds in operation, the product coming from the plant will not be absolutely free of bacteria and unless the creek is cleared to carry off the effluent straight out to the river a disagreeable condition might arise.

The county commissioners have agreed to remove the debris from the creek. The work was passed up a year and a half ago, but because there was no pressing need then nothing was ever done to hasten the work. Now that the plant is complete, and there is prospect of heavy fall rains which will overflow the creek and back up into the plant, the urgent necessity of the work is apparent.

The county commissioners will probably take some action looking toward the remedying of the condition at the meeting Saturday morning.

WALLACE MILLER PICKS HIS MAYORALTY TICKET

Macon, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Though Wallace Millers' mayoralty ticket has not yet been officially announced, it is said it has been completed today and is made up of the following:

First ward—C. W. Schaefer, P. L. Hay and C. Robert; second ward—W. H. Evans, B. F. Merritt and W. O. Stevens; third ward—Steve Wright, Dr. W. D. Lee and H. W. Pittman; fourth ward—J. B. Riley, F. Joe Bishop and Eden Taylor, Jr.

Of this ticket P. L. Hay and Steve Wright are members of the present aldermanic board. J. B. Riley and Eden Taylor, Jr., were members of Mayor Moore's municipal two years ago, and Harry C. Robert was a former alderman when Judge A. L. Miller was mayor. The others are new to the political game.

Bridges Smith's ticket is said to have been completed, but has not yet been announced.

Alderman A. L. Dasher, who was the first to announce for mayor, has not yet completed his ticket.

Funeral services will be held at the residence in the morning at 10 o'clock, and interment will be at West View cemetery, this city.

Evelyn Cates.

Evelyn Cates, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Cates, died at a private sanitarium at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. The body was taken to Poole's funeral establishment. Funeral announcement will be made later.

David Myrick Clements.

David Myrick Clements, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Clements, of Greenville, Ga., who died at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Burns, Jr., Forsyth street, Saturday, was buried Sunday at Greenville.

Walter W. Key, Carrollton, Ga.

Carrollton, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—Walter W. Key died here early yesterday morning. He had been in failing health for some time previous to his death. He was about 55 years old. He lived near Roopville until 1900, when he was made superintendent of the county farm and continued in that position until 1904, when he was elected bailiff of this district, which position he discharged faithfully up until the time of his death. At a justice court recess there were drawn up and submitted to the court expressing appreciation of Mr. Key's services and court adjourned. The deceased was buried at Bethesda church, near Carrollton, this morning. Mr. Key was a Mason and the funeral service was conducted by the Masons.

Mrs. M. C. Weaver.

Mrs. M. C. Weaver, 82 years of age, died at the home of her son, Homer Weaver, 17 South Wellington street, Tuesday night at 11:30 o'clock. She is survived by three sons, Homer, Hollie and Will Weaver, and two daughters, Mrs. Louise Wilson, and Mrs. L. C. McMillan. The body was taken to A. O. & Roy Donehoo's funeral establishment. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Wanted—An Offer on 290 Myrtle Street

When a bargain in real estate is put on the market there are always certain conditions that are brought to bear upon the present owner, making it essential that a disposal be made of the property at once. If these conditions were not of a pressing nature the property would never be offered at anything like the present price.

One of Atlanta's prettiest streets—Myrtle street—we offer a 10-room home on a corner lot, 60x190 feet, faces east and is elevated. This home is absolutely up to date in all respects.

The owner is in such condition that a disposal must be made of this property. Make us an offer and we will submit it, regardless of what it is.
